A little late, but Smith gets top job

After a slight pause — which covered a little more than two weeks — county commissioner Royce Smith has been officially appointed managing director of the Wayne County Board of Public Works on a 4-0 vote.

Everything looked cut and dried when the former Belleville mayor was approved for the $35,204 post on Dec. 22.

At the time, the seven-member public works board approved Smith's appointment on a 6-0 vote, with only George Killeen not voting.

Killeen, in fact, walked out of that meeting, contending that it was illegal to appoint Smith to the managing director's post while he was still a county commissioner.

And that has been the focal point of the delay in Smith's appointment.

Smith had originally been appointed to assume the managing director's post on Jan. 9 and said he would resign as county commissioner Jan. 8.

However, a cloud of doubt arose over the issue when Killeen strongly contended that the appointment was illegal. Also, the Detroit county commissioner blasted Smith's appointment as "a ripoff" of taxpayer's money, saying Smith was unqualified for the position.

Because the issue was admittedly a "gray area", county officials wanted to make sure it was a legal appointment.

Although the appointments of Smith as managing director, Chester Wozniak as assistant manager and Duane Egeland as deputy director and director of engineering, were already made last month, that action was rescinded last week.

The public works board, which had appointed the trio, rescinded that appointment Jan. 16.

Then Smith, Wozniak (also a county commissioner) and Egeland submitted their resignations effective at 4:30 p.m. last Friday.

On Monday morning, the public works board received and filed copies of their resignations. Then they made the motions to make the same three appointments and they passed on a 4-0 vote. Voting for the move were Commissioners William Sullivan, Clarence Young and Richard Manning and Drain Commissioner Charles Youngblood.

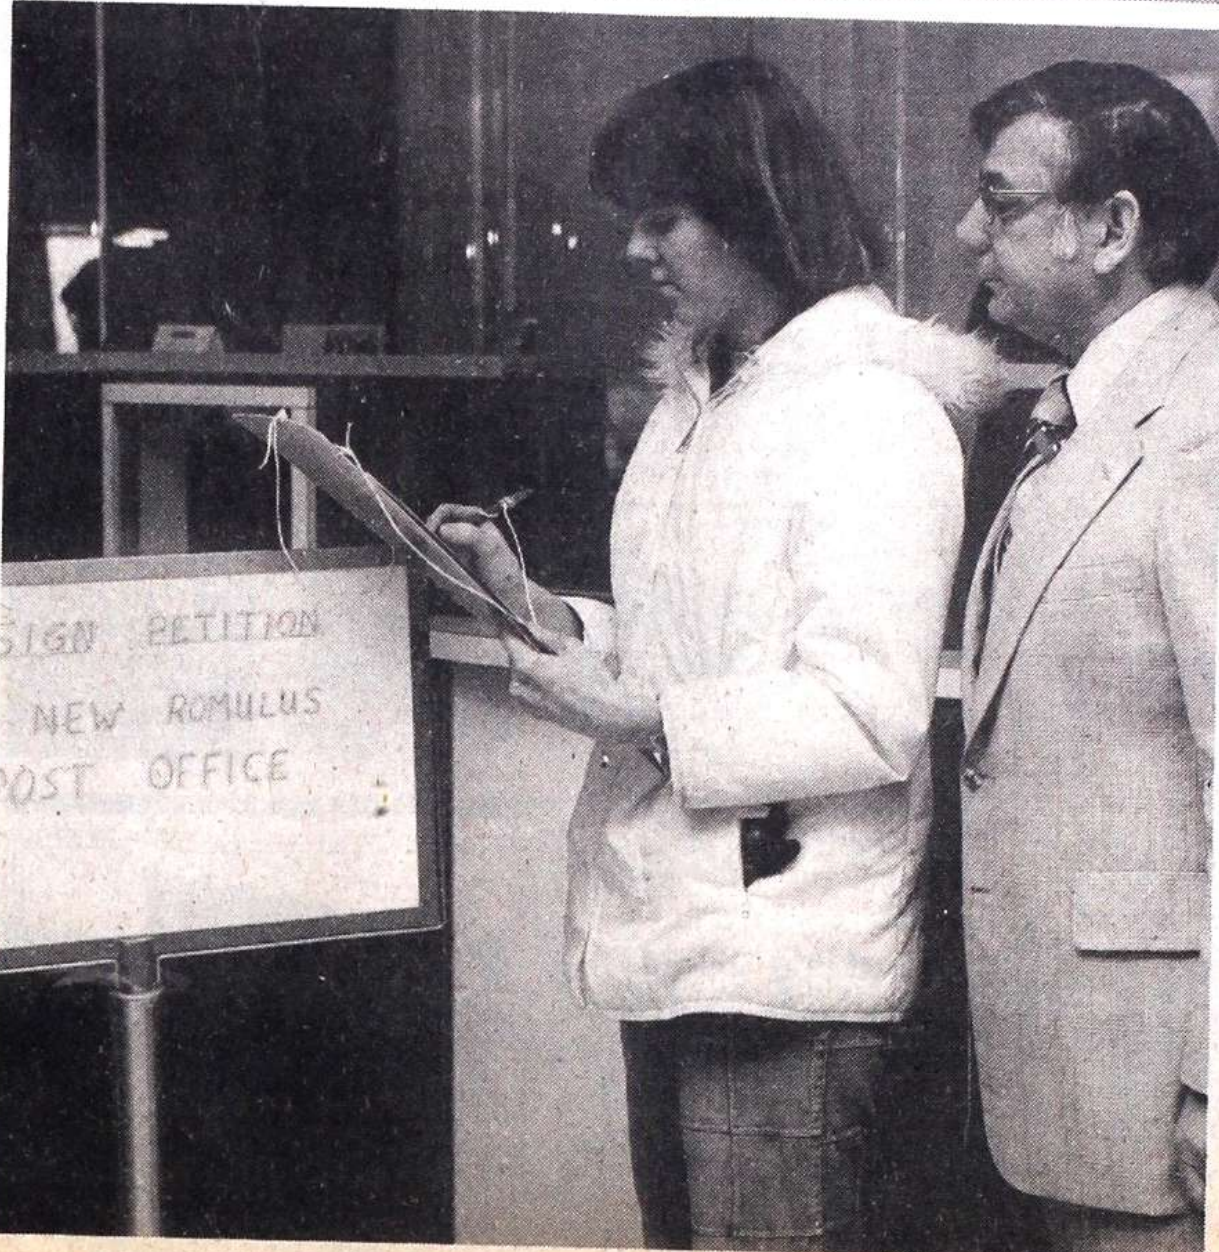

Absent were Killeen and Fred Burton of the Wayne County Road Commission.

Critics of the procedure to appoint the three men while they were county officials and let them resign later, called it improper and illegal.

Smith disagreed with that opinion, but is happier with the way it was handled. "There was an attorney general's opinion 30 years ago that stated a county supervisor (now commissioner) was eligible for any appointment after he submitted his resignation," Smith contended.

"It's admittedly a gray matter and you can argue it all day. But by doing it this way, there's no argument at all."

"I'm happy with the new position and look forward to doing a good job," said Smith. "I feel gratified that there is confidence in the new management team."

Supports new post office

Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley has been pushing hard for a new post office in the city and others have joined in the cause. Petitions are being circulated to a petition recently in support of the new post office. More than 1,500 signatures have already been obtained in the drive, according to Jay Young, Romulus public information officer.

License fee is hit hard by Raspberry

When Romulus Councilman Jimmie C. Raspberry takes a position on something, he makes no qualms about letting people know. And when he gets unanimous backing from his council colleagues, he's even more outspoken.

The latest object of Raspberry's wrath is the $2.50 surcharge on license purchases by the owners of non-commercial trailer and recreational vehicles.

The veteran 20-year elected official feels very strongly that the law, passed by the State Legislature in 1976, is discriminatory and should be repealed. And his council colleagues agree with him.

"I feel it is an unfair imposition on owners of non-motorized trailers to be charged this additional $2.50 when they use their vehicles only infrequently," said Raspberry.

"I have a tractor that I use to haul snowmobiles. But it's parked in my yard most of the year. Why should I be charged this extra tax?" he asked.

So he requested that a resolution be drawn up to oppose the surcharge. At a recent council meeting when the resolution was ready, Raspberry moved to adopt it; Council member Beverly McAnally supported the motion and it passed unanimously.

The resolution reads: "The State Legislature has adopted, and the Governor has signed into law, Public Act 266 of 1976, which provided for a payment of two dollars and fifty cents surcharge on license plate purchases by the owners of non-commercial trailer and recreational vehicles, and

"The City of Romulus believes that this is a harsh and unjust imposition on the owners of non-commercial trailers, most particularly since said owners utilize said trailers and/or recreational equipment on an infrequent basis, and strictly for person usage."

"Now, therefore, be it resolved, the City Council of the City of Romulus does implore the Governor and the Legislature to amend Public Act 266 of 1976 to provide the surcharge on license plate purchases, be charged on trailers utilized for commercial purposes only."

Copies of the resolution were to be forwarded to Gov. William Milliken, State Sen. William Faust, State Reps. Edward Mahalak and Gary Owen, and all surrounding communities.

Gala ball

Final preparations are being made as Romulus plans to hold its fourth inaugural ball this Saturday evening at Progressive Hall, 11580 Ozga Rd., in Romulus.

Featuring the music of Kevin Reed, a well-known local musician, the gala event will last from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

In addition to dancing, a light buffet and cocktails will be served. Price of tickets to the ball is $15 per person.

Tickets are available from the following people:

Ron Hopson (941-6854); Marge McCrory (941-3349); Eleanor Tanner (941-2246); Kathy McCullin (941-3092); and Mary Hatton (942-0404).

400 Free tickets weekly

Lottery give-away to start

There just may be a million dollar lottery ticket out there with your name on it, and that ticket could very well come to you courtesy of Associated Newspapers.

Today is the first day of the Lottery Laffs contest; and to be a winner all you have to do is think "funny."

There will be 400 Michigan Lottery Michigan tickets awarded as prizes each week. And your million dollar winner could be one of those.

Contestants are invited to make up a funny caption to a different cartoon published in the Associated Newspapers each week. Today's cartoon is on page A-12.

Return your entry, or entries (you can enter as many times as you want as long as you keep thinking up those funny captions!) to one of the merchants listed in the boxes on the page. Just clip out the cartoon and use it as an entry form. You can play every week during the contest.

Your local participating merchant will have a canister on display in his store to collect forms. At the end of each week, the merchant will pick the two cartoon captions he believes to be funniest, and will send them in to Associated Newspapers. A panel of editorial cartoonists will pick the winning entries. Decision of the judges is final.

Each week 14 prizes will be given out. First prize will be 100 Michigan lottery tickets, second prize is 80 tickets and third prize is 50 tickets. Fourth, fifth and sixth prize winners will each receive 30 lottery tickets, and eight prizes of 10 lottery tickets each will be given out. Any one of those free tickets might win you anywhere from $25 to $1 million.

Contest winners will be notified by phone.

The ticket winners and their winning captions will be announced in the paper two weeks later during each of the 26 weeks of the contest.

Contestants can enter the contest at no charge and can have fun dreaming up the captions. Each picture lends itself to countless comical possibilities.

Just locate your nearest participating merchant and watch for the cartoon in your hometown newspaper each week.

Your imagination and your funny bone could win you those lottery tickets. And you certainly know what those lottery tickets can win you!

Lobbies for bill

Senate Majority Leader William Faust (D-Westland) is shown as he spoke to city officials and other residents of Romulus last week as they visited Lansing to lobby for a better transportation bill. "I am sure that other legislators who are working for passage of the pending transportation package also appreciate, as I do, your taking time to show support for a vital program which promises substantial benefits for Michigan's senior citizens," Faust told his listeners. Four Romulus city officials, including Stephen Bonczek, grants administrator; Aaron Jones, assistant grants administrator; John Shea, administrative assistant, and Jay Young, public information officer, — made the trip to Lansing with 40 local senior citizens.

Voter head to talk

How can women and non-partisan civic groups become active in politics?

That's the message of Katherine Cushman, an official of the League of Women Voters, who will speak at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow to "We The People" at Romulus City Hall.

Mrs. Cushman has long been active in the League of Women Voters and is now president of the Detroit Metropolitan Area League, a coordinating group for 16 leagues in this area.

"I'm looking forward to coming to Romulus and sharing what I've learned with the people there," she said this week.

"My grandmother, Eva Barton, daughter of George and Isabella Barton, was born and grew up in Romulus on part of the land now owned by the airport. In her earliest years, she lived in a log cabin, so I have fond memories when I think of Romulus," she said.

The League of Women Voters was founded in 1920, the year after women got the right to vote, and Mrs. Cushman has been a member of the organization for 32 years.

She belongs to a long list of organizations and committees. But one of her fondest accomplishments was being named the first woman member of the Vestry of Dearborn's Christ Episcopal Church and writing a 106-page centennial history of the church.

Tomorrow's meeting is open to the public at no charge. Mrs. Cushman will answer questions from the audience at the end of the program.

Secretary of State outlines 1978 priorities

Michigan Secretary of State Richard H. Austin has outlined highlights of his department's plans and legislative priorities for 1978.

They included major proposals in the areas of consumer protection, driver safety, and elections, as well as departmental program changes designed to expand driver and vehicle services provided in his statewide network of branch offices.

In consumer protection, Austin said a major effort would be directed towards getting the Legislature to set workable guidelines regarding unfair and deceptive practices in motor vehicle sales. He noted that "while our office is responsible for licensing vehicle dealers, we presently have extremely weak authority regarding sales practices by some dealers, which are clearly questionable and which should be rendered illegal."

The situation with respect to vehicle dealer sales is in sharp contrast with the regulation of repair garages. The state's auto repair law is more specific with regard to improper practices. In implementing this aspect of the law last year, Austin's office recovered nearly $135,000 in cash refunds for citizens with complaints about auto repair garages or mechanics. About four times that amount is estimated to have been recovered in terms of work redone.

With regard to driver safety, Austin called attention to progress being made in the Legislature towards acceptance of his recommendations that Michigan adopt a classified driver licensing program and a longer probation period for beginning drivers. Austin said his efforts in the legislative arena would continue to focus on getting these bills passed, as well as on ending point-free speeding violations currently allowed for persons who exceed 55 but who stay below the old 70 limit.

The proposal for a four-year probation for new drivers would enable his office to more closely supervise them through the period in their driving experience when statistics show they are most likely to establish dangerous driving habits, he explained.

Austin also has committed his office to continue "to contribute all we can towards promoting the usage of safety belts."

Regarding election procedures, Austin is proposing several important law changes designed to increase citizen participation in the electoral process. One would allow voter registration by mail upon request.

Austin observed: "With proper safeguards, this would enable persons who are ill or disabled, for example, to become registered."

Two of Austin's other 1978 legislative proposals would remove obstacles for disabled and absentee voters. At present, a voter must submit one request for an absentee voter ballot for the primary election ... and then must go through the entire procedure again in order to obtain an absentee voter ballot for the general election.

Austin proposes allowing the voter to submit a single request which could cover both elections. Another proposal would reduce the narrow restrictions presently placed on absentee voting.

"The change would allow anyone who will be unable to get to the polls on election day for any reason to be eligible to apply for an absentee voter ballot."

Austin's plans for 1978 include continued support for legislative efforts aimed at eliminating insurance "red-lining" — an industry practice which makes it virtually impossible for residents in certain areas to obtain reasonable insurance rates. Austin also pledged priority attention to the clear need for a revision of the property damage provisions of No-Fault auto insurance in Michigan Michigan, calling them "a major flaw in an otherwise highly progressive law."

Other highlights of the Secretary of State's 1978 legislative package include proposals for year-round vehicle registration; measures for dealing with uninsured and unlicensed drivers; strengthening police authority in dealing with drunk drivers; repeal of the presidential primary; recodification of election laws; and obtaining appropriation for a state historical museum.

56 presents world of art in 2 series

The world of art will be well represented as Channel 56 introduces two new weekly art series to Detroit television, "The Originals" and "Royal Heritage."

Starting Feb. 5 at 3 p.m., "The Originals," a new, 17-part series, will devote its first seven episodes to "Women in Art."

The seven film portraits show sculpture, paintings or photography while telling of the artists' lives and times. In some cases, the artists are presented in film interviews to give their views of art and life. During the course of the first seven weeks, "Women in Art" looks at the art of Louise Nevelson, Bettye Saar and Georgia O'Keeffe, among others.

Later each Sunday at 5 p.m., Britain's Royal Art Collection makes its American television debut on "Royal Heritage." This weekly series of nine one-hour programs was filmed in castles and palaces all over England.

"Royal Heritage" opens with the bounty of medieval kings and continues to reveal the collections of the Tudors, Charles I, the Stuarts, the first three Georges, George IV (probably the greatest influence on royal collecting), Victoria and Albert, and Edward VII.

The series unrolls a kind of royal tapestry with the figures of kings and queens who amassed this incredible heritage interwoven with film of the royal events which have marked their history.

Gene Greek, Community Relations Manager, Wyandotte, offers you this telephone tip:

Teach your children how to use the phone in an emergency!

Anyone can have an emergency at home that calls for fast, intelligent use of the phone. ... a sudden illness, accident, fire. Hopefully, you already have a list in your phone book or elsewhere near the phone, giving the numbers of your doctor, hospital, poison control, police, fire department and your home address. But, if you have children at home, would they know how to use the phone in an emergency? Make sure they do.

Show them where you keep the emergency numbers and how to call the operator, if necessary. Your babysitter should be told who to call, too. Know if 911 can be dialed for fire, medical and police help in your area. Nobody likes to think about emergencies at home. But, it's better to give it a little thought now, than be sorry you didn't later. Why not check out the family on your emergency phone call procedure right now?

Romulus chief of police, Koch, retires from position

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

A well-known local man, who served Romulus as its chief law enforcement officer, Jacob J. Koch turned 65 on Jan. 1 and was honored at a retirement party two days later by a host of friends and co-workers.

Anyone who has been around Romulus very long at all, is familiar with the name of "Jake" Koch (pronounced Cook). He was appointed chief of police of Romulus Township in 1965 after 26 years of service as an officer in the Detroit Police Department.

He served in that capacity until 1975 when he assumed the duties as code enforcement officer, to enforce and maintain local ordinances and laws of the city.

"Yes, a lot of changes have taken place since I first began as a young police officer in 1937," said the 5-10, 230-pound Koch, recalling his entrance into law enforcement some 40 years ago.

Koch was born Jan. 1, 1913 in Detroit and attended Henry Ford Trade School, Edison Institute of Technology and Detroit Institute of Technology High School before studying mechanical engineering for two years at Detroit Institute of Technology.

After working on sheet metal layout, jigs and fixtures for three years at Gar Wood Industries in Highland Park, Koch decided to join the Detroit Police Department in 1937.

He began a law enforcement career, which saw him rise from a police officer to a detective in 1948, where he served until his retirement in 1964. His steady rise in rank began one year after becoming one of Detroit's "finest".

In 1938 he was assigned to the accident prevention bureau, where he did investigative work, photographing, recording and prosecution of accident cases.

He loved the work and labored hard to win promotion to the position of administrator in November 1945. Working with the scientific laboratory, Jake inaugurated the use of drunk-o-meter in accident cases presented in court. He was the first officer to be declared an expert witness by the court in the use of the drunk-o-meter in these cases.

His dedication won him promotion to the detective bureau in April 1948. Assigned to precinct detective bureau, he investigated and prosecuted all types of crime.

Three years later — in 1951 — Koch was assigned to the special investigation bureau where he was entrusted with the investigation and prosecution of a wide variety of cases, specializing in frauds and city investigations of: frauds involving aid to dependent children, arson, abduction, activities of hoodlums and gangsters, frauds involving charitable solicitations, city investigation, including embezzlement and larcenies from various city departments, and counterfeiting.

He also worked extensively in investigating explosions and bombings, extortion, fake telegrams and cablegrams, broadcasting used in crime, false advertising, gypsy confidence and frauds, frauds involving Michigan Employment Security Commission benefit payments and a host of other violations of the law.

He retired on March 2, 1964 from the Detroit Police Department as a detective after 26 years as an officer.

After supervising four to 10 men at Koch Metal Products in Detroit for 17 months, he was hired as chief of police for what was then Romulus Township. He had a list of duties as long as his arm and thoroughly enjoyed his work. From Aug. 5, 1965 to Feb. 2, 1975, Koch held that job, which also included a variety of other responsibilities.

He attended Michigan State University — Continuing Education Service in traffic engineering principles presented by the Highway Traffic Safety Center. Koch also attended Oakland University Traffic Engineers seminar.

In the absence of an appointed traffic engineer, he carried out the duties spelled out in the adopted Uniform Traffic Code for Cities, Village and Townships.

In February 1975, Jake was retained by the City of Romulus as code enforcement officer and much of his work was behind a desk. Being in good health, he's looking for something active to fill his waking hours.

He was presented with a gold watch at his Jan. 3 retirement party and expressed gratitude to all who took part.

"It's really nice to be remembered this way and I'll always have a fond place in my heart for this city and its people," Koch said. "I feel I gave my best to the work I did here and I received a lot in return."

A public servant retires

Jacob "Jake" Koch has been an active man most of his 65 years and the veteran law enforcement officer isn't expected to slow down now. Koch served Romulus as chief of police from 1965 to 1975 after 36 years of dedicated work as an officer and detective with the Detroit Police force. "Jake", as all his friends know him, was honored at a retirement party Jan. 3 and was given a gold watch by City Clerk Leonard Folmar (right). Koch spent the last two years of public service as Code Enforcement Officer for the City of Romulus and retired on his 65th birthday, Jan. 1, 1978. (Photo by Fred Nelson, Romulus Public Information Office.)

Smith's DPW appointment labeled a 'rip-off'

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

A Detroit-based County Commissioner has blasted colleague Royce Smith's appointment to the post of Wayne County public works director as "a rip-off of taxpayers' money".

George F. Killeen (D-3rd District) denounced the appointment as a "political plum" that will cost Wayne County residents more than $80,000 for a man he calls incompetent to do the job.

"That's quite a promotion," Killeen said this week in an exclusive interview with Associated Newspapers. "Smith's present salary as commissioner is a little over $16,000 annually and he'll be making more than $35,000 in his new job."

Killeen called Smith totally unqualified for the new post as managing director of Wayne County Public Works Department.

"I can't visualize him bringing any input or quality to the decision-making process in the Super Sewer areas he represents," Killeen said of Democrat Smith, who has served the 27 District as County Commissioner for the past two years.

Smith was mayor of Belleville for 10 years until he was elected commissioner to represent the communities of Belleville, Van Buren Township, Sumpter Township, Canton Township, Wayne, part of Westland, Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Northville.

Killeen said Smith's predecessor, George Bingham, had 20 years of experience with the public works department.

"That's the kind of person we need to build the Super Sewer," Killeen added. "He understands all the problems in dealing with contractors by virtue of his long experience."

Killeen, who does not get along well with Smith, walked out of the seven-member local public works board meeting when it approved Smith's appointment 6-0 on Dec. 22. Smith's appointment was to take effect Jan. 9, but the matter of Smith's new position, along with that of assistant director and deputy director, is slated to be voted on by the full board of Commissioners tomorrow.

Smith contends the position is already in existence. Killeen and other critics say the position will be a newly-created one which will have to be approved by the board.

Efforts Tuesday to reach Al Suchy, chief attorney for the Board of Commissioners, and his assistant, George Cross, for clarification of the matter proved unsuccessful as neither was unavailable for comment.

On the other hand, Smith said he did not want to get in a "shouting match" with Killeen.

"I am hired as an administrator, not as an engineer," he replied. "I think I am a qualified administrator and I believe my record proves it," was all that Smith would comment.

New officers for a new year

Romulus Senior Citizens Club No. 1 recently had the installation of its officers for the coming year. City Council Chairman Mary Ann Banks not only had the distinction of swearing in the new leaders of the group, she also had the honor of installing her mother, Mrs. Cecelia Renke, who is a longtime officer of the senior citizens' group. Club No. 1 is very proud of its name and activities and takes great interest in providing not only fun things to do for their age group but to get involved in community affairs. The installation service was held at the V.F.W. Hall, 39270 Huron River Drive, Romulus. Above, Mrs. Banks is shown in-

A massive earthquake will hit Wayne County on Saturday morning, but there is no cause for alarm — it will be a contrived disaster to test the effectiveness of amateur radio emergency communications.

On Saturday and Sunday some 100 members of the Wayne County Amateur Radio Public Service Corps (ARPSC) will join other amateur radio operators throughout the United States and Canada to provide an opportunity to test their communications abilities and equipment and to gain valuable experience under realistic emergency communications conditions. The Wayne County ARPSC is composed entirely of FCC-licensed radio amateurs who have volunteered their time and stations in the public interest.

Directing the local effort is Wayne Wiltse, K8BTH, Emergency Coordinator for Wayne County.

"We will imagine the effects of a massive earthquake striking Wayne County and disrupting commercial power, telephone circuits, freeways and local police and fire agencies," Wiltse explained. "And amateurs will activate their home stations, as well as mobile and emergency-powered portable units to handle messages for Civil Defense, the Red Cross, police and other public-service agencies."

The Wayne County ARPSC is composed of two major groups. The Amateur Radio Emergency Service (ARES) and the National Traffic System (NTS). Both groups consist of volunteer "ham" radio operators whose vocations and avocations are in the radio communications and electronic fields. All have passed FCC examinations in Morse code and radio theory, and are licensed to operate in the amateur bands.

Many are top-notch message handlers and radio net operators who have dedicated themselves to providing emergency radio communications in time of need.

"The Wayne County ARPSC is capable of establishing highly reliable two-way radio communications on several communications frequencies, from virtually any location where needed.

Their personally owned mobile, portable, and hand-held two-way radios are capable of point to point communications anywhere in the County," Wiltse said.

"The ARPSC is also capable of establishing radio communications links from Wayne County to stations in Michigan, the United States, and ... indeed... most of the world," he continued.

Wiltse added that messages going outside Wayne County will be handled through the National Traffic System, a network of amateur stations organized to relay messages anywhere in the county.

The Simulated Emergency Test is sponsored by the American Radio Relay League, the national organization of radio amateurs.

In Brief--

Want a puppy?

Just about every little boy and girl loves a cute, fuzzy puppy. And the Romulus Animal Control Center has a wide variety for sale.

Director Al Lucke announced this week that the animal center has a large variety of breeds and sizes they want to get into good homes.

The minimum bid is $5 to buy a puppy or dog, and the Animal Control Center at 35257 Goddard Road at corner of Wayne Road, is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

"We're always looking for considerate people who want to give a puppy or larger dog a fine home," said Lucke.

Those interested in purchasing a pup can call the Animal Control Center during business hours at 941-0666, ext. 77.

Deadline is extended

Paying taxes seems to be a big headache for everyone. But Romulus City Council is at least trying to soften the blow just a little bit.

Auditions planned

Auditions are open for anyone in the area who would like to work in the Wayne-Westland Civic Theatre's production of "Rain."

Try outs will be held tomorrow and Friday at 8 p.m. at St. John's Episcopal Church, 555 S. Wayne Road, Westland. "Rain" is a play founded on the story, "Miss Thompson", and many people will be needed both on stage and behind the scenes.

For further information, contact Isabell Barrett at 699-2276.

March 15 deadline set by county on fate of extended care facility

The future of the Reuther Extended Care Facility in Westland must be decided by March 15 to avoid a new county fiscal crisis and unnecessary anxiety for its 178 patients, Wayne County commissioners have decided at a Ways and Means Committee meeting.

After approving a $545,820 supplemental appropriation to keep the facility operating through March 12, the commissioners on Jan. 12 adopted an amendment by Wayne County Commissioner Arthur Carter to "set a deadline in their search for more federal or state funds to keep the facility open and self-supporting."

"It is unfair to keep elderly patients, their families and our employees in a state of limbo," Carter said. "If there is no assured source of funding by March 15, I recommend we direct our Corporation Counsel to present a phase-out plan to the public and to the federal court that is monitoring this issue."

Faced with a $13 million deficit, the County Board of Auditors had recommended closing the Reuther Facility at the start of the fiscal year, Dec. 1, due to its $3.5 million annual operating deficit. The Board of Commissioners, seeking to salvage critical law enforcement and criminal justice programs, adopted the recommendation.

Board Chairman John Barr told the Ways and Means meeting that intense negotiations are underway with state and federal authorities in an effort to secure higher Medicaid reimbursement for patients at the facility.

"The future of the Reuther facility is in the hands of the state and federal authorities," Barr said. "The county cannot afford to subsidize the facility when we are mandated by law to pay for skyrocketing criminal justice needs."

"If the Medicaid payments could be raised to reflect the unique and higher level of skilled nursing care offered at the Reuther center, it could be self-supporting and there would be no reason to close it," Barr said. "Nearly 85 percent of the patients are Medicaid recipients."

Barr said Medicaid reimburses the county $60 per day for a Medicaid patient, compared with an actual cost of $108 per day. The annual cost per patient is $35,000.

However, Commissioner Conrad L. Mallett was pessimistic, saying: "I doubt we will get the Medicaid funding. It's unfair to create false hope for the patients. We also can't afford to damage our credibility with the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission by spending more than we take in." (The Michigan Municipal Finance Commission has ordered the county to maintain a balanced budget—or face receivership by the state.)

The Carter proposal also called for increased communication with patients, families, employees and the public. A monthly status report, prepared by Chairman Barr and a special transition committee, is to be sent to patients and staff.

In response to lawsuits aimed at blocking the closing, courts have ruled the county has the right to do so. But Federal Judge Ralph M. Freeman also said the county must have an "orderly transition" plan that includes a six-to-eight week closing notice to patients.

In the meantime, commissioners sought financial help from the state and were promised a $1.8 million special grant for a six-month phase-out period, running from Dec. 1, 1977 through May 31, 1978.

Animal homes studied

"Animal Homes" will be presented at the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark near Milford on Jan. 22 at 10 a.m.

Animal homes come in all shapes and sizes. Some are in the basement; others occupy penthouses. Some are obvious; some are not.

Participants should dress warmly for this 1½-hour program and meet at the Nature Center Building.

Vehicle entry permits are required.

TODAY'S Real Estate

by M. Phyllis Crabtree

The home itself represents the largest single investment in the lives of most families. Many variables influence the cost of the home. Cost is such as house types and locations — these are important influences, too. Usually a single family house offers the most privacy. Deplexes and row houses are next. Many people prefer the sense of a small private world, which is possible in a well-designed and well-maintained house, and believe that separate houses are better places for their children.

Personal service for the buyer or seller is guaranteed when you deal with CENTURY 21 COMMUNITY REALTORS, 8077 N. Wayne Rd. The home you buy may be the largest single investment in your lifetime. So don't second guess! Put your trust in the services of CENTURY 21 COMMUNITY REALTORS. Open 7 days a week from 9 to 9. Phone 522-6410.

Series surveys rare plants

"Endangered Plants" will be presented at the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark near Milford at 9 a.m. Saturday. This is the third in a series of three programs on endangered species.

According to the Smithsonian Report of January 1975, about 3,000 of our native plants are either endangered or threatened. This amounts to about 10 percent of our native plant species. Why are these plants in danger? These and other questions will be considered by naturalist Pat Carlson through the use of slides and discussion. The endangered Species Act of 1973 will also be discussed.

This 1½-hour program is for families and individuals only, however, advance registration is required.

Minor Home Repair Program proves itself

By MAUREEN BEATTY

Wayne County's Minor Home Repair Program has not only proven itself as a much needed service, it has also been so successful with area seniors that approximately 200 minor home repairs have been made since last June.

The federally funded program is offered by the Wayne County Office on Aging to all senior citizens 60 years of age and older who are residing in their own homes. The only other requirement needed to qualify for the program is that the home be a single family dwelling.

Harley Trumbull, director of the program, says that now is a good time to call for service.

"We are caught up on our indoor repairs right now, and outdoor repairs must wait for better weather."

Harley has six men working 20 hours each per week to service homeowners in need.

The program is designed to do small but important repairs, such as leaky faucets, electric switches and plugs, that need replacing, handrails, steps and porches.

"There is no charge to the senior," the director said, "but the important thing is that our services often mean the difference between safe or unsafe surroundings for the homeowner."

The Wayne County Office on Aging introduced this program after evaluating the needs of our county's seniors. If you have any minor home problems, call today for repairs. Remember, there is no charge for the service. Contact Harley Trumbull by calling 326-2411.

In connection with the Minor Home Repair Program, I once again urge all private citizens and businesses who have tools or materials to donate, to also contact Mr. Trumbull at 326-2411. Donations are tax deductible, and you will be helping a very worthwhile program.

COMING EVENTS

By the time this article is in print, Police Sgt. Daryl Perkins of the Westland Police Department will have spoken to a group of seniors at the Kirk of Our Saviour Church in Westland, on "Home Safety." I attended one Sgt. Perkins' talks at J Building recently and found the program not only informative, but entertaining as well. We thank Sgt. Perkins for showing our seniors how to make their homes undesirable to thieves.

On Jan. 30 a lawyer from the Legal Aid Society will be at J Building to assist seniors with legal problems. The hours are 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., and there is no charge for this service.

On Feb. 3 Maryette Baird, a retired nutritionist from Michigan State University Extension Service, will talk at J Building about shopping and how to enjoy meals.

On Feb. 14 "The Nutty Kazoos" will pay a visit to the Kirk of Our Saviour Church in Westland. The Kazoos, with their offerings of songs and laughs, are well known to our area seniors. If you have any upcoming events, please let us know about them.

Winter ecology studied

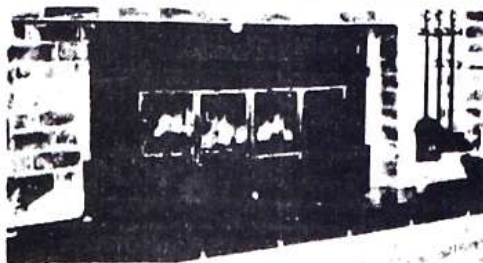

"Winter Ecology" is the subject of a program to be given at the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark near Milford at 10 a.m. on Sunday.

The winter season is often thought by use to be a cruel time for wildlife. Yet in reality, winter helps to create stronger races of animals and plants.

Learn about the importance of winter in the natural world found around us and how plants and animals have adapted to this season.

This 1 1/2-hour program is open to families and individuals.

Editorial opinions

Local citizens hit on post office stand

The lack of response coming from Romulus regarding the possible renaming of Metro-Airport to Romulus International Airport has matched the response coming from the community following Mayor Oakley's attempts to get a full-service post office located in the city.

If we are to judge by the few comments received at our office, or from the public at large, the citizens of Romulus are currently providing the new mayor with a valuable lesson in politics.

In spite of the fact that Romulus has been judged guilty of needing a new image, the new mayor has met with almost no support in his efforts of providing that improved version.

We feel, that if the good people of Romulus do not have sufficient time to devote to the cause of improving the community, they had best resign themselves to living with the problems that currently exist.

Mayor Oakley, on the other hand, should not re-examine his position relative to the pace that he has established toward the goal of bringing Romulus into the 20th century.

Much like our President, Jimmie Carter, Oakley will come to be criticized for his high-powered efforts to move the community in the direction of progress.

We think that the people of Romulus are missing a golden opportunity to take a giant step for the community.

Up to this point, it was difficult for a resident of Romulus to admit where he came from without a slight cringe. Oakley has offered the people of the community the chance to regain their long-lost pride in their town. We think that the people of Romulus owe it to their community to take advantage of Oakley's offer.

Special ed drivers have valid argument

The 113 special education students in Van Buren Township have found themselves thrust into the role of 'pawns' in the chess game being played between the Van Buren school board and the 25 special education drivers who transport the kids to class.

The drivers, who threatened to walk out if demands for fringe benefits equal to full-time school employees were not met, did just that last week, and special education students are now being bussed and taxed to classes.

At the heart of the dispute between the school board and drivers, is the drivers' claims that insurance premiums for their personal automobiles that are used to transport the kids, are excessive because of the nature of the job. And the 'high risk' category forced upon them by the insurance carriers cuts deeply into the $4 per hour that drivers are currently paid.

In an effort to resolve their problem, the drivers have insisted that the 14 cents a mile that they receive, must be increased to 31 cents if they are to adequately cover their costs.

We feel that the drivers' demands are reasonable.

It is certainly unfair for them to have to subsidize Van Buren's special education programs.

A possible solution to the entire problem would be for the Van Buren school board to simply pay the drivers the difference between a normal risk insurance policy, and the high risk policy that they are required to carry.

The drivers are entitled to fair compensation for their services, just as the school board is entitled to fair charges assessed for services rendered.

We hope that the drivers and the school board continue to work toward resolving the problem.

The citizens of Van Buren are entitled to fair treatment.

Editor's note:

This page in the Associated Newspapers is being made available to the residents of the communities we serve.

Anyone of any age is invited to submit an open letter to their community or to the editor of Associated Newspapers.

We will publish letters on any subject. If you feel you have a plan for solving a city problem, or wish to comment on someone else's plan, this space is being reserved for you.

If you or your group would like to address the community at large, or just an individual, this space is reserved for you.

If you think you can do it better, cheaper, faster, or with more flair, this is the place to tell everyone about it.

You are invited to send your opinions on events, or items of public interest, to the editor of Associated Newspapers, 35540 Michigan Avenue, Wayne 48184.

Names will be withheld from letters published only for very good reason. The reason must be included in the letter.

The editor reserves the right to edit and/or condense letters where necessary.

Associated Newspapers has just given you a public voice. If a story is worth telling to your neighbor, why not tell it to your whole community.

Things that matter

Resolved that 'I can'

By GEORGE R. PLAGENZ

Nobody, it seems, makes New Year's resolutions any more. Instead, we just bow to destiny and take what comes.

That's too bad. Our New Year's resolutions are the goals we set for ourselves in the coming year, and psychologists have discovered there is a direct relationship between the goals we set and the success we achieve.

The higher our goals, the greater our chances of success. Life has a way of saying, "Name it and it's yours."

It's the fellow who isn't shooting for any bull's-eye who fails to get ahead. A New Year's resolution will give you a target to aim at. With 365 arrows in your quiver, you are bound to hit your mark before the year is out.

Only you've got to mean business. Take your resolutions seriously. Give them the "30-day test," at least. If you oversleep two mornings running after resolving to get out of bed each day at 6 a.m. and jog around the block, set the alarm for 6 again the next day. Charles Kettering, the famous automotive engineer and inventor, said, "I have never tried anything which worked the first time I tried it."

Actually, the harshest thing about New Year's resolutions isn't trying to keep them. It's making them. Few of us are honest enough with ourselves or know ourselves well enough to put the finger on what is holding us back from success or happiness.

If you can't think of anything, try laziness for a starter.

Maybe you aren't lazy or maybe you just think you aren't. Most of us aren't lazy in the popular sense of the word. We don't lie around all day like Grandpa Jones and Junior in those "Hee Haw" skits.

But we are lazy in the sense that we so seldom do our best. We do just enough to get by.

An incorrigibly indolent student was once called into Dean Briggs' office at Harvard for failing his examinations. The boy gave a long list of excuses.

The superlatively understanding dean listened without interrupting. When the boy had finished, he looked him straight in the eye and posed just one question, "John, did you ever in your life do anything as well as you could?"

John is now a leading industrialist in the East. He said to me recently, "I learned from that short meeting with Dean Briggs the most valuable lesson of my entire life. It is not native gifts or genius or opportunities or luck which brings success rather than failure. It is doing everything as well as you possibly can."

If laziness isn't standing between you and happiness and you can't think of anything else that is, ask your wife or husband.

Have her (or him) make your New Year's resolution for you by picking out the one thing about you which she (or he) would like to change.

Then you keep the resolution. Every wife has something she would like her husband to give up. Or there is something he doesn't do which she would like him to do. And vice versa. The husband had the same wishes about his wife.

We would all be positively amazed to see how much more smoothly our marriages would run if each party would agree to do just one thing the other desired. Just one thing.

Such an arrangement might very well have saved the marriage of the man and wife in New York who recently got a divorce. She sued him on the grounds that he preferred whiskey to her.

"I told him one night, Judge," said the woman in court, "that he would have to choose between liquor and me. I scarcely had the words out of my mouth when he dashed to the phone, called the liquor store and told them to send a bottle right over."

Reflections

Both ends against middle

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

Here we are, well into 1978 and I haven't told you about my cute little granddaughter and the smart things she does.

Here's her picture . . . she's the one without any teeth and that hole in her head isn't really a hole, it's where she cut her hair fifteen minutes after her mother had paid fifteen dollars to have it styled.

She ended up in the hospital a few days before Christmas. It wasn't that she was sick, she is quick to tell you, but only that her appendix had to come out. It isn't everyone that has to have an appendix out, she says, only people who 'mature' quicker. No one knows where she found out about that maturity, but it eased her fears as she went down into unconsciousness and helped her reign like a queen over the children's floor after she had regained consciousness.

She had a certain way in ordering the nurses about and I think it was probably their combined consensus that she would be better off at home than in the hospital that got her released on Christmas Eve just three days after her 'cutting.'

She was pretty disgusted about that because she had bet her little brother that Santa Claus would be able to find the hospital and he had told her that anyone knew that Santa Claus had to have a chimney to go down before he could find anything.

She would never be able to collect her bet, although it's a sure thing that she was just betting to annoy her little brother since she had thrown herself into a tizzy one day just before Thanksgiving when someone suggested that she had better be a good kid or Santa Claus wouldn't make it to her house at all.

"I'm not a baby," she had said with withering scorn. "I don't believe in that Santa Claus stuff. Besides, how come Mama said she had to take out another loan if we were going to have Christmas? Do you have to pay Santa Claus . . . huh? huh?" And with a flip of her long hair she strutted off to Sesame Street.

However, the little kid is a realist. And she figures things out. Even though her intellect and her approaching old age tell her that there really isn't a person called Santa Claus, she still has enough child about her which says it just might be, and she's smart enough to play it both ways.

I found this out a couple of days ago when I was emptying out the bag she had borrowed to go to the hospital. In the side pocket was a letter addressed to Santa Claus.

"Dear Santa," it read. Please bring me the things I have written down below. Bring them for Christmas.

A calculator.
A Backgammon game.
A Baby-Come-Back doll.

When emergency strikes, it pays to be lucky

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

It was a very bad night to be flying in a small airplane. The ceiling was somewhere around 400 feet at best, and icing conditions had developed.

There were two men flying the airplane: one was an instructor, and the other a relatively new pilot who was not yet fully qualified to fly on instruments (IFR) only.

The flight was initiated at Sault Sainte Marie in Michigan's upper peninsula. According to the flight plan filed at the Soo, the destination was the Ann Arbor Municipal Airport.

As it turned out, it was to be a night of absolute terror for the two pilots.

They maintained radio and radar contact with the ground stations throughout the flight. Then, for reasons still unknown, the transponder in the airplane began to operate intermittently.

The pilot in the right-hand seat — the one who was not fully IFR qualified — got on the radio and asked for assistance from the nearest airport.

Then it happened. The unthinkable. The unbelievable. The airplane's propeller tore loose from the crankshaft and flew off into the pitch-black night. Oil began to blow in all directions, and the windshield was quickly covered with a blanket of black goo.

He reached forward to the instrument panel and pulled the throttle back to cut off the engine — an engine which was worthless and doing nothing more than roaring and throwing oil. In his haste to cut off the engine, he broke a finger nail.

They were now gliding through the choppy darkness with no power plant to keep them airborne. He again got on the radio and explained what had happened.

The ground control station made a statement: "You are a dual engine craft." He replied, "Negative."

"Say again!"

"Negative. We are a single engine slowly losing altitude. Do you have us on your radar? Will you give us a heading to your landing strip?"

He could hear frenzied activity at the ground control. Clearly this particular air controller had never before been a party to such an emergency.

A voice crackled through the air, "Turn right to 365 degrees and maintain that heading. You are nine miles from our strip."

It was painfully obvious that the engineless airplane could not make nine more miles through the rough skies. In concert, the two pilots made a decision. "We are going down to try and find a break in this weather."

"Roger. We are still tracking you."

He gently pushed the control wheel forward and the nose of the airplane dropped. He had his eyes on the altimeter. It read 200 feet.

Then, for just a few seconds, they broke out of the overcast and had a quick view of the ground. He remembers seeing a traffic light turn from red to green. He adjusted his glide pattern and headed the airplane in the direction of the traffic signal.

But again the weather closed in. They were headed toward an unknown road. Was there traffic coming? Did the road turn to the left or right just past the traffic signal? The altimeter read 50 feet.

The instructor evidently conceded his fate. "It's your airplane," he said, "do what you think you have to."

At perhaps 25 feet of altitude, the pilot saw that they were headed directly toward a large stand of trees. There was not enough time left to turn the airplane. He banked it until they were almost standing on one wing tip. He straightened up, pulled back on the control wheel to lift the nose, and bounced onto the frozen road.

The brakes on the rudder pedals were useless on the ice, and he had no engine or propeller to help control the airplane.

Their ground speed was now approximately 40 m.p.h. One wheel hit a dry spot on the road while the other was still on ice. The airplane began to skid slowly to the right.

They went off the road, the left wing hit a tree and was destroyed. He remembers the airplane shuddering and then crashing into a deep ditch.

Then there was silence. They unbuckled their safety harnesses, pushed the doors open, and fell out into three feet of "the most beautiful snow I've ever seen."

The expensive airplane was totaled; but the only injury to either man was the broken finger nail suffered when the engine was cut off.

They were driven to the airport by the Michigan State Police who insisted, as you might guess, that they fill out an endless array of paper work.

The pilot who effected the almost miraculous landing is now fully qualified to fly on instruments, and he still flies all over the country. He's a businessman well known in Western Wayne County, and his wife is now learning to fly his new airplane.

As he told this story last week, he smiled and said, "Any landing that you can walk away from is a good landing."

Contact sports for girls?

By BOB AMEENE

An old saying goes: "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." When it comes to girls competing with boys in grade and high school sports, parents of members of the distaff side had better take heed.

With the Ohio Supreme Court now ruling that girls can play on boys' teams, including such contact sports as football and wrestling, it would appear that part of society has lost its senses!

Boxing would be considered a contact sport; some high schools have boxing teams. By any stretch of the imagination, can one visualize what would happen if a girl weighing 148 pounds got into the ring with a male welter-weight.

In all but maybe one out of a million times, the girl would absolutely be devastated, zapped, massacred, beaten to a pulp, possibly even killed.

Possibly, just possibly, the Ohio Supreme Court justices who issued that ruling are either out of their minds, or else they have a grudge to settle with the fairer sex.

But, it would seem that these justices are not alone in their views. More and more womens' organizations and letters to the editor, are advocating that girls be allowed to play on boys' teams in all sports.

How ridiculous! How idiotic!

A girl has no more business on a boys wrestling, boxing or football team than a boy has in a hospital attempting to go into labor to have a baby!

Any mother with average intelligence should be right enough to know what would happen to their daughter if a male boxer hit her daughter in the jaw, or in the breast. I cannot conceive of any protective apparatus, save a quarter-inch shield of armor completely surround a girl boxer that would keep her from getting bruised breasts, broken noses, fractured jaws and broken ribs.

In wrestling, I can just see female team members suffering fractured pelvises, broken ribs and broken arms and legs.

For all but the most mannish and big-boned girl, football would be a disaster for today's lasses. Again, bruised breasts would be as common as a winter cold. How many cases of cancer of the breast would result from competition of girls in contact sports with boys?

Most boys and men cannot understand, or comprehend, why a girl would choose to compete with a stronger, more rugged member of the opposite sex. Even the inmate of a mental institution would be aware of the obvious mismatch and chance of physical dangers to the smaller, more fragile female.

The ignorance, or outright stupidity, of a young girl wanting to compete against boys could possibly, just possibly, be half-way understandable. But, such is not the case with their mothers.

How could a mature woman, old enough to be the mother of a teenage daughter, be so ignorant of the ramifications of letting a daughter do battle against boys in contact sports? The answer could possibly qualify for the eighth wonder of the world!

In any event, it is time for reason to prevail, time for the courts of our land to take a stand, in fact, the only stand open to them — ban girls from boys contact sports and-or competing with them on the same teams. Such a conclusion is so obvious that those who disagree, in this writer's opinion, automatically label themselves as not playing with a full deck.
Your deal, mama.

provements. In other words, you have become much more "productive," thanks to capital investment, research, and specialization. Because of this growth in productivity, you have a higher standard of living.

Then along comes the island government (don't ask from where). In return for half of your output, they provide you with certain services.

Some of these services increase your productivity: The government agricultural expert teaches you how to grow more corn per acre. The road-clear a better path between your place and Friday's. And so on.

But others have the reverse effect: The Worker Safety Bureau says you have to stop using you bow — its string might break and hurt you. The Housing Department says your hut is not strong enough to resist a hurricane and must be rebuilt. The Pure Food Agency says all of your food will have to be inspected before you can trade it with Friday. And so on.

All of these rules have a negative, but bearable, affect on your output. Poor Friday, however, is hit much harder. The Preservation of Cute Fish Administration informs him that what he is catching has been declared a Cute Fish and is therefore protected. He must catch something else. But nothing else is as plentiful or as easy to catch.

Friday's productivity plummets. Obviously this affects Friday. But it affects you, too. He has less to trade for what you produce, and you are producing more corn than you want to use yourself. So, you are no longer able to collect in fish the full benefit of your own production. Friday will probably raise the price of his fish. And you will probably continue to buy some. But you may also ask yourself, "Why work so hard?" So you cut back your output and spend more time walking on the beach.

Thus, the net effect of the government regulations has been to reduce Friday's productivity and yours, too. Total production is down. Now you both have a lower standard of living.

Are all of the intangible government benefits worth the cost? That's something only you and Friday can answer. But it's a question that needs to be asked. And that's no fish story!

From the State House

County hospital resolution entered

By WILLIAM R. KEITH
State Representative
33rd District

Should the state take over the responsibilities of the psychiatric wing of Wayne County General Hospital?

This is a question that has raised considerable and strong debate over the last few months. I have received a tremendous volume of mail from local people, protesting a possible state takeover.

I am personally highly opposed to this; have fought it, and will continue to fight it. Admittedly, there are problems.

Despite the valuable and needed service it performs, the psychiatric wing has become a financial burden for Wayne County and its taxpayers. It is reportedly costing $205 per patient per day, and the state says it can care for the same patients at about $100 per day.

This would seem to argue for a state takeover, and savings for the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, but there are several other factors to be considered. Not the least of those factors is the jobs the unit provides for some 200 persons who are primarily local residents. If the state took over responsibilities, employment would come under State Civil Service. This would indicate a loss of jobs for local people.

Also, the psychiatric wing provides mental health care for a maximum number of 124 psychiatric patients. Would a state takeover be in their best interests? Most of them come from the Wayne County area. It is possible that many of them could be transferred to state institutions far from their homes and families.

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has for a number of years provided this in-patient care with the understanding that it would be reimbursed at 90 percent of the cost of patient care by the Michigan Department of Mental Health.

However, there has been a question on just how much that reimbursement should be. Because of this, a point was reached last year at which the county had not received its total reimbursement for either the current year or the previous fiscal year. This resulted in on-going negotiations to determine the amount owed by the State of Michigan to Wayne County.

The situation presented a serious problem for the County Board of Commissioners, which is charged with the duty of presenting the taxpayers with a balanced budget each year. The question of how much the county would receive in state reimbursements for patient care at the psychiatric wing made this difficult when preparing the 1977-78 budget.

The Legislature did move to ease the problem by including in the Department of Mental Health budget for the current fiscal year funds which could be used for the reimbursement.

However, the question of a state takeover remains. Letting the state assume care for the patients could be a tempting possibility for the Board of Commissioners.

In the interests of local people, I have taken two courses of action. With two other concerned local legislators, I sponsored a resolution in the Legislature, urging the Wayne County Board of Commissioners to continue operation of the psychiatric wing and, at the same time, to examine alternative methods for the future operations of the facility.

The resolution asks the board to study both the feasibility of its continued operation of the facility, with adequate state reimbursement, as well as the feasibility of a state takeover, including the use of existing buildings for expansion of services. This approach stresses that if a state takeover is necessary, then it must be understood that the facility and its patients be kept in Wayne County.

I have also met personally and discussed the problem with representatives of the union which covers workers at the psychiatric wing; the director of the Michigan Department of Management and Budget, and the chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

Out of all of this, hopefully, will come a solution to the problem of the future of Wayne County Hospital's psychiatric wing.

A guest editorial

'No man is an island'

By RICHARD L. LESHNER
President, United States
Chamber of Commerce

Suppose you found yourself shipwrecked on a remote island, like Robinson Crusoe. Your survival would depend on your ability to get enough water and food, and perhaps shelter as well.

Let's say you need one fish a day to live, and that's about what you can catch with bare hands or a primitive spear. Under these circumstances, you'd have to spend all of your time working just to avoid starvation.

But one day, through luck or extra hard work, you catch two fish and dry one. Now you have something in the bank. You can take the next day off, or put the time to some other use. Being smart, you use the day to make a fishing net.

That extra fish you saved is your "capital," and the net is a capital investment. Thanks to the net, you can catch a whole week's worth of fish in one day. That leaves you the time to build a hut, make a bow and some arrows, explore the island, and do some hunting.

While exploring you run into Friday, your native companion. Friday has a lot of dried fish, some of which were left to him by his late grandmother.

It occurs to you that if Friday lent you some fish to live off of, you might have enough time to raise a crop of corn and domesticate some of the wild animals. You suggest this to Friday. "What's in it for me?" he wants to know. You agree to repay the fish (or the equivalent in corn, goat's milk and pork), plus something extra for his trouble and risk. That's interest. And interestingly enough, you are both planning to gain from the use of Friday's capital.

Your experiments (research and development) are successful. The farm works. Since Friday seems to be a better fisherman, you leave that to him and concentrate on the farm (specialization of labor). Soon, a regular trade is going between the two of you.

Neither of you is working any harder than before, but now you both have plenty of food, the luxury of variety, and a "surplus" which can be consumed as leisure or invested in further capital im-

Bible tells who is Jesus

THE REV. E. W. RAIMER
Pastor
Tri-City Assembly of God
Canton Township

WHO IS JESUS? What a wonderful question, what an important question. You may say, "I know who he is." But do you really know who he is? I feel that it is important that we know who Jesus is.

WHO IS JESUS?

In Genesis He is the seed of the woman.
In Exodus He is the Passover Lamb.
In Leviticus He is Our High Priest.
In Numbers He is the Pillar of Cloud by day and the Pillar of Fire by night.
In Deuteronomy He is the prophet like unto Moses.
In Joshua He is the Captain of our Salvation.
In Judges He is our Judge and Law Giver.

In Ruth He is our Kinsman Redeemer.

In I and II Samuel He is our Trusted Prophet.

In Kings and Chronicles He is our Reigning King.

In Esther He is our Mordecai.

And in Job He is our ever-living Redeemer. Job said, "For I know that my Redeemer liveth."

WHO IS JESUS?

In Psalms He is our Shepherd.

In Proverbs and Ecclesiastes He is our Wisdom.

In the Song of Solomon He is our Lover and Bridegroom.

In Isaiah He is the Prince of Peace.

In Jeremiah He is the Righteous Branch.

In Lamentations He is our Weeping Prophet.

In Ezekiel He is the Wonderful Four Faced Man.

"Life's Fiery Furnaces."

WHO IS JESUS?

In Hosea He is the Faithful Husband.

"Forever married to the backslider."

In Joel He is the Baptizer with the Holy Ghost and Fire.

In Amos He is our Burden-Bearer.

In Obadiah He is the Mighty to Save.

In Jonah He is our great Foreign Missionary.

In Micah He is the Messenger of Beautiful Feet.

In Nahum He is the Avenger of God's Elect.

In Habakkuk He is God's Evangelist, crying,

In Zephaniah He is our Saviour.

In Haggai He is the Restorer of God's Lost Heritage.

In Zechariah He is the Fountain opened up in the House of David for Sin and Uncleanness.

In Malachi He is the Sun of Righteousness, rising with Healing in His Wings.

WHO IS JESUS?

In Matthew He is the Messiah.

In Mark He is the Wonder-Worker.

In Luke He is the Son of Man.

In John He is the Son of God.

In Acts He is the Holy Ghost.

In Romans He is the Justifier.

In I and II Corinthians He is the Sanctifier.

In Galatians He is our Redeemer from the Curse of the Law.

In Ephesians He is the Christ of Unsearchable Riches.

In Philippians He is the God Who Supplies all our needs.

In Colossians He is the Fullness of the Godhead bodily.

In I and II Thessalonians He is our Soon coming King.

In I and II Timothy He is our Mediator between God and Man.

In Titus He is our Faithful Pastor.

WHO IS JESUS? In Hebrews He is the Blood of the Everlasting Covenant.

In James He is our Great Physician, For "The Prayer of Faith Shall save the sick."

In I and II Peter He is our Chief Shepherd.

Who soon shall appear with a Crown of Unfading Glory.

In I, II, III, John He is Love.

In Jude He is the Lord coming with Ten Thousands of His Saints.

And in Revelation He is King of Kings and Lord of Lords!

WHO IS JESUS?

He is Able's Sacrifice, Noah's Rainbow, Abraham's Ram, Isaac's Wells, Jacob's Ladder, Issachar's Burden, Jacob's Sceptre, Balaam's

Shiloh, Moses' Rod, Joshua's Sun and Moon that stood still, Elijah's Mantle, Elisha's Staff, Gideon's Fleece, Samuel's Horn of Oil, David's Slingshot, Isaiah's Fig Poutice, Hezekiah's Sundial, Daniel's Visions, Amos' Burden and Malachi's Sun of Righteousness.

WHO IS JESUS?

He is Peter's Shadow, Stephen's Signs and Wonders, Paul's Handkerchiefs and Aprons and John's Pearly White City.

WHO IS JESUS?

He is Father to the Orphan, Husband to the Widow, to the traveler in the night He is the Bright and Morning Star, To those who walk in the Lonesome Valley He is the Lily of the Valley, the Rose of Sharon and Honey in the Rock, He is the Brightness of God's Glory, the Express Image of His Person,

The King of Glory, the Pearl of Great Price, the Rock in a Weary Land, the Cup that runneth over, the Rod and Staff that Comfort and the Government of our Life is upon his Shoulders.

WHO IS JESUS?

He is Immanuel — God with us.

He is Jesus of Nazareth — the Son of the Living God! He is my Saviour, My Healer, My Deliverer, My Baptizer in the Holy Ghost, My Constant Companion. For he said:

"Lo I am with you always, He will never leave me nor forsake me." He is the solver of Every problem — There is Nothing Too Hard for Him.

He is Lord of Everything. He is Lord of the Impossible. He is all Powerful. He said: "All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth." He has power over all the power of the devil. He can heal every sickness. He can deliver from every disease. He can meet your every need. He is Master of Every Situation.

Surely He is Lord of Lords and King of Kings. He's my Lord!

He's my God.

He is King of my Life.

Praise God! He is coming again. He is coming SOON!

Huron Adult Ed sets second semester lineup

The second semester of adult education classes in the Huron School District are slated to begin Feb. 6 at Huron High School.

Registrations are being accepted now through the first week at the high school between 1:30 and 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday.

Classes available on Mondays include basic grammar I, ceramics, GED mathematics, leathercraft, men's physical education, oil painting, physical education slimnastics, pottery, practical English, psychology and shorthand I.

Classes available on Tuesdays include grammar II, ceramics, clothing I, English composition and grammar, government action, small engine repair, GED social studies, typing II and III, auto mechanics and swim and trim.

Wednesday's program will be carpentry, creative writing, essential mathematics, photo technology, small engine repair, typing I and first aid.

Thursday classes will include auto mechanics, basic electronics, Bible, clothing II, general science, metric system, plumbing, public speaking and U.S. History I.

Further information on the adult education lineup can be obtained by calling 782-1505.

Culinary students practice 'arts'

Culinary art students at Washtenaw Community College are offering a full-service lunch for the public as part of their restaurant management and training.

Students, under the direction of James Beaton and Don Garrett, prepare and serve the meals in a dining room on the school's campus.

Edison stokes up 'Station A' on anniversary

Detroit Edison Co. observed its 75th anniversary by reactivating a replica of its first power plant and by reiterating its resolve to continue to build plants, as needed, to meet energy demands in the 1980s and beyond.

William G. Meese, Edison chairman, and John R. Hamann, the company's president, last week activated the coral-fired machinery at a Greenfield Village model of Station "A", which was Detroit Edison's central generating plant when the company was incorporated on Jan. 17, 1903.

"The powerhouse, which this replica represents, brought commercial electric service to this region and was the springboard for the vast electrical and steam system that is Detroit Edison today," Meese said.

From its central location at State and Washington Boulevard, Station "A" was the keystone of an electrical system which served 22,000 customers across a several-block sector of Detroit. Today, Detroit Edison's 10 major power plants serve 1.7 million customers across 7,600 square miles in southeastern Michigan.

While Station "A" and three other plants had a capacity of nearly 4,900 kilowatts in 1903, Detroit Edison's current capacity is 8.7 million kilowatts — almost 2,000 times the amount 75 years ago.

The two-story Station "A" was said to be the largest power station ever built for an electric company when it was constructed in 1886 by a Detroit Edison predecessor, the Edison Illuminating Co. with a direct-current capacity of 4,000 lamps. It provided service via underground lines primarily to businesses like Fred Sanders' ice cream machines, at $6 a month, J.L. Hudson's retail store, at $62.50 a month (largely because it ran an elevator) and the presses of the Detroit Daily Tribune and Evening News.

Station "A" featured four engines, two boilers and two dynamos but, in an early example of expanding to meet increasing load demands, had to double its capacity with more machinery in 1887 — a year after its start-up.

Northward residential expansion in early Detroit prompted Edison Illuminating in 1890 to add a second plant, dubbed Station "B", on Willis Avenue at Woodward, with a 3,000-lamp capacity.

Electric meters in those days consisted of metal plates in jars of zinc sulphate. Current passing through the solution caused the zinc to deposit on the plates. To read a meter the customer took the plates to the company, which weighed them to see how much zinc had deposited.

In 1891, a man named Henry Ford was hired at Willis as night foreman and engineer at a salary of $40 a month. He was later chief engineer at Station "A" and worked for Edison Illuminating until resigning in 1899 to devote full time to his "horseless carriage" dream. But his lingering love for the electric business led to creation of the Station "A" replica at Greenfield Village in 1944. It is scaled to one-quarter the size of the original and is operated each summer by Edison retirees.

Edison Illuminating was considered the best managed of the several private electric companies operating in Detroit at the time and in 1901 absorbed the Detroit Electric Light and Power Co. and the Brush-Peninsular Electric Light Co., two feuding firms responsible for illuminating Detroit streets with lofty — and graceless — arc towers.

Station "A" and the Willis plant were Detroit Edison's legacy from Edison Illuminating in 1903, in addition to Detroit Electric's plant on Atwater Street (Station "F") and Brush-Peninsular's facility on Foundry Street (Station "C"). Despite the incompatibility of the new electrical system, service was consolidated under one company at last.

Eighteen months later came the Delray power plant, the first facility built for and by the fledgling Detroit Edison CVO.

Meese noted that one of Detroit Edison's founding fathers, Alex Dow, was chided by many for building such a big plant when the need wasn't apparent.

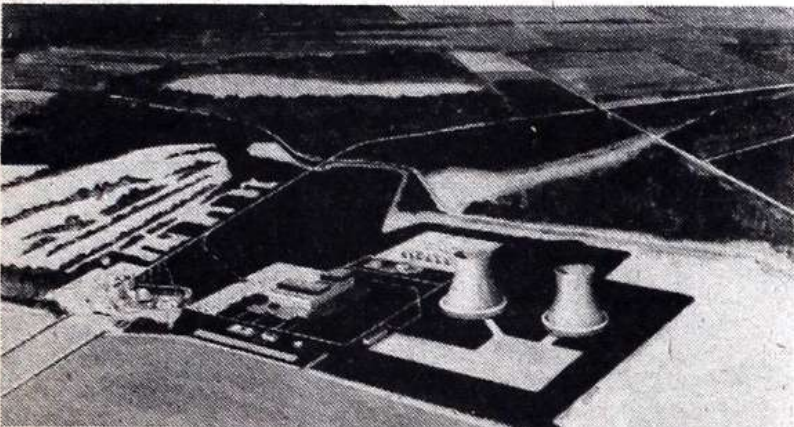

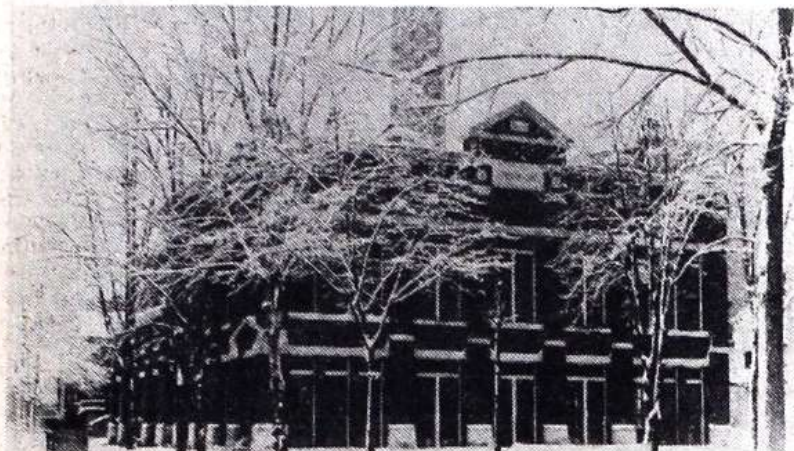

"Every Detroit Edison senior executive since Dow has heard that same kind of criticism," Meese said. "Yet here we are, 75 years later, with growth in demand continuing and our reserves narrowing until the time our first Greenwood unit comes on line in 1979." Just last summer, Detroit Edison experienced a new all-time peak, and Jan. 10 had a new all-time winter peak.

Despite the conservation ethic, Meese said, electricity demand will be increasing as the economy grows and to meet that demand plants like Greenwood, Fermi 2 (1980) and Belle River 1 (1983) will be necessary. Construction work is in progress on all three.

The original Station "A" was decommissioned shortly after Delray's debut. All machinery was removed in 1916 and the building continued as Detroit Edison's administrative hub until 1922 when executive offices were moved to the company's present headquarters on Second Avenue. From 1922 until its demolition in 1974 Station "A" housed an Edison customer office.

The Station "A" reactivation begins a year-long series of activities involving employees and the community with the central theme of "75 years of progress and looking forward."

Station "A" had a service radius of 1 1/2 miles and supplied about 4,000 customers with electricity, fueled by coal, after its start-up in 1886. It was the heart of an electrical system when Detroit Edison was born on Jan. 17, 1903. The artist's conception shows Edison's Fermi 2 nuclear plant, now half built and scheduled for completion in 1980. It alone can supply enough electricity to one million residential customers. Some 89 Station "As" could fit into one of Fermi's twin cooling towers.

WCC Center moves

The Ypsilanti Center of Washtenaw Community College has moved to 411 Florence St., Ypsilanti.

The center offers a variety of credit and non-credit courses for area residents. Non-credit classes this semester provide training in completing income tax forms to quilting to making real estate investments, first aid administration and course work in the rights of the self-employed.

Credit courses, which already have begun, include a variety of programs in math, interior design, photography and dance.

The center is now located in what was formerly St. John's Elementary School next to St. John the Baptist Church at the corners of Florence and Ballard streets.

For further information about winter offering at the center, call 482-2230.

"I DON'T KNOW WHAT TO SAY . . ."

Does the question of knowing the "proper" thing to say at the visitation keep you from going to a wake or funeral? It shouldn't!

Your appearance at a wake or funeral is always a support and expression of love to the bereaved. The words you express as you embrace or extend the clasp-of-hand can add a sincere feeling of warmth and concern — but the words aren't nearly as important as your "just being there."

Here are some expressions you might consider:
"John was such a fine person. I will miss him."
"My warmest sympathy to you and the family."
"Mary was such a dear friend."
"Mary enjoyed life and shared her joys so often with others."

You may find it easier to say these words of comfort if you practice them beforehand when you are alone. Sometimes just hearing yourself say the words out loud makes them easier to express to others.

In income tax filings

CPAs emphasize documentation on returns

(This is the third in a series of articles prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants, offering advice on filing 1977 income tax returns.)

A Texas doctor several years ago claimed tax deductions for Traffic death toll declines

Last year was the fifth straight that Michiganders drove more miles safely than motorists in the rest of the nation, and the state's 1977 highway death rate should be 10 percent below the national average when final figures are available, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Michigan probably has lowered the number of deaths per 100 million vehicle miles driven to a rate of 3.0, a figure the nation is not expected to achieve until at least 1980," said Arthur C. Gibson, Auto Club safety and traffic engineering manager.

The Highway Users Federation projected a national highway death rate of 3.3 for 1977, about the same as the preceding year. Michigan's 1976 rate was 3.16.

Michigan has posted a significantly lower death rate than the national average since 1973, when the national rate was 4.24 compared to the state's 3.78.

While the 1977 highway death toll is expected to hit a five-year high of 47,900, the number of deaths in Michigan unofficially dropped to 1,914, a 2 percent decrease compared with 1976 and a 14 percent decrease from 1973.

Auto Club cited the 55-miles-per-hour speed limit, stepped-up traffic enforcement, the Motorists Information Inc. safety belt campaign and traffic safety programs such as "Bring 'em Back Alive!" for helping to reduce traffic deaths 14 percent in 1977 over Michigan's record high 2,213 highway deaths in 1973.

Gibson noted that Auto Club's projections were based on unofficial traffic deaths and mileage statistics. Final figures won't be available for several months.

thousands of dollars he had spent on his luxurious yacht. Not only did he claim the deductions, he got them.

The reason, says the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants, was documentation. The doctor was able to produce detailed records showing that he used the yacht solely to entertain other doctors who referred patients to him.

The documents included the ship's logbook, giving the names of guests and the dates they were aboard; records of cases referred to him by each guest; and bills, receipts or canceled checks covering all the costs of operating the yacht. Nothing was missing.

The CPAs estimate that, unlike the doctor, thousands of other taxpayers lose perhaps millions of dollars in legitimate deductions each year simply because they are unable to document their expenditures or have lost the records that would remind them that deductible expenses were incurred.

So CPAs recommend, whether you prepare your own tax return or have it done for you, that the process begin with a thorough search of your records (checkbook, receipts, etc.) and your memory. It is best to round up all the evidence before starting to fill out the return, to save a lot of your time as well as that of your tax advisor, whose meter will be ticking while you search.

What papers are needed at tax time?

To begin with, those showing income you received. This means W-2 forms from your employers, which also will show federal, state and local taxes withheld and Social Security contributions made. (If you worked for more than one employer it is possible you paid too much into Social Security and have a credit coming.)

Other income that should not be overlooked is interest received. For that you should have your copies of Form 1099s that also were sent to Internal Revenue Service by your bank or savings and loan. Dividends you may have been paid will be shown on statements from your security broker or on Form 1099s. Bank deposit entries should reflect other earnings such as rents, royalties, etc.

If income of some types such as gambling winnings can be reduced by balancing them off against losses, valid documentation is especially important, say the CPAs. One gambler who tried to offset winning by producing fistfuls of losing horserace tickets lost his case when many of the tickets were found to carry heel prints, indicating they had been picked up from the ground after a race.

After documenting earnings, try to find what evidence you can of costs you incurred in producing that income. The cost of going to and from work is not deductible, but other business travel can be.

If you use your car partly for business, you may want to consider itemizing your costs rather than taking the standard mileage allowance, but first be sure you can prove what you spent. The standard mileage allowance has been increased to 17 cents a mile for 1977: A log showing business and personal mileage driven will be a big help, as will credit card bills, if you charge your auto expenses.

Documentation of business entertainment is more important than ever. IRS has become very hard-nosed about requiring not only receipts for expenditures, reported, but detailed information about persons entertained and business accomplished.

If you had investment income, pull together evidence of what you spent on financial publications, advisory services, safe deposit boxes in which you stored your securities, and travel costs in visiting your broker.

The next item that may require documentation is exemptions. You are not likely to be asked to prove that your spouse or children under 19 are truly your dependents, but if they do not live with you or have substantial income of their own, you might have to show that you provided more than half of their support. The same for elderly parents or others who depend on you.

Canceled checks and divorce records should make documentation of alimony payments quite simple, but these are among the papers to have at hand.

For evidence of the main types of itemized deductions — medical costs, contributions, interest, state and local taxes and casualty losses — which should be easy to document with receipts and canceled checks, a thorough search of your records and recollection should bring tax savings by uncovering the smaller, easily-overlooked deductible expenses.

For example, in the medical category, there is medical transportation, prosthetic devices such as contact lenses, and health insurance, any of which can be a big item for many taxpayers. Or under the contribution heading, there are the out-of-pocket costs of working for a charitable organization.

The CPAs suggest an item-by-item review of every receipt you were given in 1977, every check you wrote. Pull out those that have any possible tax connotation, however remote. Let your tax advisor decide whether they can be useful.

One final document that will be needed is a copy of last year's tax return. That will remind you or your tax advisor of carryovers, depreciation rates and other procedures you have been following that must be continued consistently in the '77 return. Last year's return also might dredge up a deduction or two you had forgotten about.

How about that luxurious yacht? In the next article in this series the CPAs will take up the tax consequences of parenthood.

Motion by Raspberry, supported by McAnally, to adopt Resolution 77-009.

RESOLUTION 77-009

WHEREAS: The Mayor and City Council of the City of Romulus have been advised that the Honorable Senator William Faust, Senate Majority Leader, will introduce, to the 79th Legislature, a bill which will provide for the renaming of the Wayne County Detroit Metropolitan Airport to the Romulus International Airport; and

WHEREAS: Said action can be justified and supported as essential to the continued residential, commercial and industrial growth of the State of Michigan, most particularly by the Doxiadis Reports published during the period 1966 to 1970, wherein it has been established that a megalopolis shall exist spanning the communities, Mount Clemens at the eastern most extremity, Ann Arbor at the West, Flint at the North and Toledo at the South, placing the City of Romulus at the nucleus of this development; and

WHEREAS: The major land transportation arteries are currently impeded, providing direct access to regional are transportation modes, rapidly becoming the principal means of travel throughout the United States; and

WHEREAS: The decentralization movement identified in the Doxiadis Reports has taken place well in advance of the timetable set forth therein; it is essential that the State establish a megalopolis center from which the untapped raw potentials of the various areas of the State may be identified in terms of land travel time and/or miles; and

WHEREAS: Adoption of the proposed legislation would serve as a catalyst for the future, establishing new horizons for development in the State of Michigan and go far to set forth the interdependence which exist between all communities located throughout the State of Michigan; and particularly as proposed in the Doxiadis megalopolis; and

WHEREAS: The citizens of the City of Romulus, as we are sure the citizens of the State of Michigan, are and will continue to be eternally indebted to the foresightedness and leadership displayed by Senator Faust in his authorship of this landmark piece of legislation.

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED: That the Mayor and the City Council of the City of Romulus does herewith set forth its enthusiastic support for this legislative enactment.

BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED: That copies of this resolution be forwarded to Governor William G. Milliken, Senator William Faust, Representatives Gary M. Owen and Edward E. Mahalak, Clerk of the House, Clerk of the Senate and all surrounding communities in Wayne County.

Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Raspberry, Canejo, Block, McAnally, Carter, Cantrell, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

78-010

What's for lunch?

Here's a quick '77 tax review

Some people like changes; others prefer things the way they are. But whatever side of the fence you're on, one thing is certain: When you fill out your 1977 tax return, you won't be able to avoid the many changes in the tax law that have come about through recent legislation.

You probably have heard the standard deduction has been replaced by a zero bracket amount, which is a flat $2,200 for singles and $3,200 for marrieds filing jointly. And there has been quite a bit of publicity about the new tax tables with the zero bracket amount, personal exemptions, and general tax credit built right in.

These changes affect most taxpayers, but don't require you to plan ahead. Because some of the new provisions do, however, demand pre-planning, it makes sense to start gathering your records together and examining the tax consequences of some of your actions.

For instance, if you own a capital asset, such as stock, bonds or real property that you intend to sell this year, are you aware that in order to qualify for long term capital gain or loss treatment, you must have owned that asset for more than nine months? The holding period in prior years was more than six months.

Do you also know the amount of a capital loss you can use to offset your taxable income has increased from $1,000 to $2,000?

Both of these changes can make a significant difference in your tax bill for 1977. Suppose, for example, that you never heard of the new nine-month holding period, and you dispose of a capital asset after seven months, thinking that you will have to pay tax on only one-half of your profit. When you fill out your 1977 tax return you might be surprised at the amount of tax you owe.

If you have moved, or plan a move, in 1977, you will find several changes in the tax law. The distance requirement of 50 miles has been changed to 35 miles.

Submarine sandwiches, hot baked meat loaf sandwiches and pigs in a blanket will be among the entrees that will be served next week in the cafeterias of the Van Buren and Lincoln Consolidated School districts.

In Van Buren's elementary schools the menu Monday will be soup, pizza, vegetable, chilly things and milk, followed by juice, cheeseburgers on buns, french fries, fruit, pudding and milk on Tuesday.

Next Wednesday's bill of fare will be cold meat, cheese and lettuce submarine sandwiches, with side dishes of fruit, soup, pie and milk.

Next Thursday the cafeterias will be serving juice, beef-o-roni, vegetable, cake and milk, with a lineup of juice, grilled cheese sandwiches, vegetable, fruit cobbler and milk closing out the week.

In the junior high schools the menu Monday will be soup, ham-burgers on buns, tator tots, fruit Jell-O, chilly things and milk, with soup, sloppy joes on buns, fruit, cake and milk on tap for Tuesday.

Next Wednesday's lineup will be soup, pizza, fruit Jell-O, pudding and milk, while hot baked meat loaf sandwiches, mashed potatoes and gravy, fruit, cobbler and milk will be served next Thursday.

Next Friday the cafeterias will be serving juice, Italian lasagna, tossed salads, bread and butter, cake and milk.

The alternate menu selections for the week will be meatball submarine sandwiches Monday, Belleville burgers Tuesday, doubleburgers with cheese next Wednesday, melted cheese and ham sandwiches next Thursday and Belleville burgers next Friday.

At the Lincoln Consolidated Schools the menu Monday will be pigs in a blanket, buttered corn, fruit and milk, with hot soup, peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, fruit, cookies and milk on tap for Tuesday.

Next Wednesday's lineup will be pizza, fruit, buttered vegetable and milk, while next Thursday's menu will be fish on buns, cole slaw, fresh fruit and milk.

Rounding out the week will be a menu of toasted cheese sandwiches, tomato soup, buttered corn, ice cream and milk.

Tyler completes vehicle operator course

Pvt. Randal R. Lancaster, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lancaster of Hannan Road, Romulus, recently was presented the Air Assault Badge upon graduation from the Air Assault School at Ft. Campbell, Ky.

Trainees learned to rapidly and safely exit a helicopter from a variety of difficult situations. Whether descending into tree tops or lowering themselves or injured soldiers down sheer drops, the graduates are highly proficient.

Pvt. Lancaster entered the Army in April 1976.

The private is a 1976 graduate of Belleville High School.

Pfc. James E. Huddleston, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Huddleston of Denton, Belleville, recently completed a Chinese Mandarin language course at the Defense Language Institute, Presidio of Monterey, Calif.

Classes, which consist of six to eight students, offer six hours of intensive spoken language instruction daily.

Pfc. Huddleston entered the Army in June 1976.

He is a 1974 graduate of Belleville High School.

Marine Pvt. Timothy J. Tyler, the son of James H. Tyler of Bruce, Romulus, has completed a Motor Vehicle Operator's Course.

During the seven-week skill training at the Marine Corps Base Camp at Camp Pendleton, students received classroom training and behind-the-wheel instruction on the operation and capabilities of Marine Corps vehicles, defensive driving techniques, rules of the road and user-level preventive maintenance.

He joined the Marine Corps in August 1977.

Also in the armed forces:

Navy Seaman Apprentice David M. Dybicki, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Dybicki of Wick Road, Romulus, has reported for duty aboard the destroyer USS Vogelgesang, homeported in Newport, R.I.

A 1976 graduate of Romulus High School, he joined the Navy in September 1977.

Marine Pfc. Thomas M. Miller, the son of Sidney F. Miller of Jackson, Belleville, has been meritoriously promoted to his present rank upon graduation from recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot at San Diego, Calif.

He received the early promotion for his superior performance during all phases of the 11-week training cycle, which emphasized physical conditioning, self-discipline and teamwork.

Marine Pvt. William C. Cooper, the son of Robert L. Cooper of New Castle, Romulus, has completed the infantry combat training course at the Marine Corps Base at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

During the six-week course, he received classroom instruction and participated in field exercises involving infantry tactics, the construction and camouflage of fighting positions and the use of mines, demolitions, and intra-company communications equipment. His specialized training centered on the duties of a rifleman, with emphasis on squad tactics and the techniques of fire of the squad's weapons.

He joined the Marine Corps in August 1977.

WESTERN WAYNE COUNTY TODAY

January 25 & 26, 1978

An economic analysis and forecast

What it's all about!

Probably no other area in our nation currently is exerting more of a dramatic impact on the lives of its residents than the western and central portions of Wayne County, Michigan.

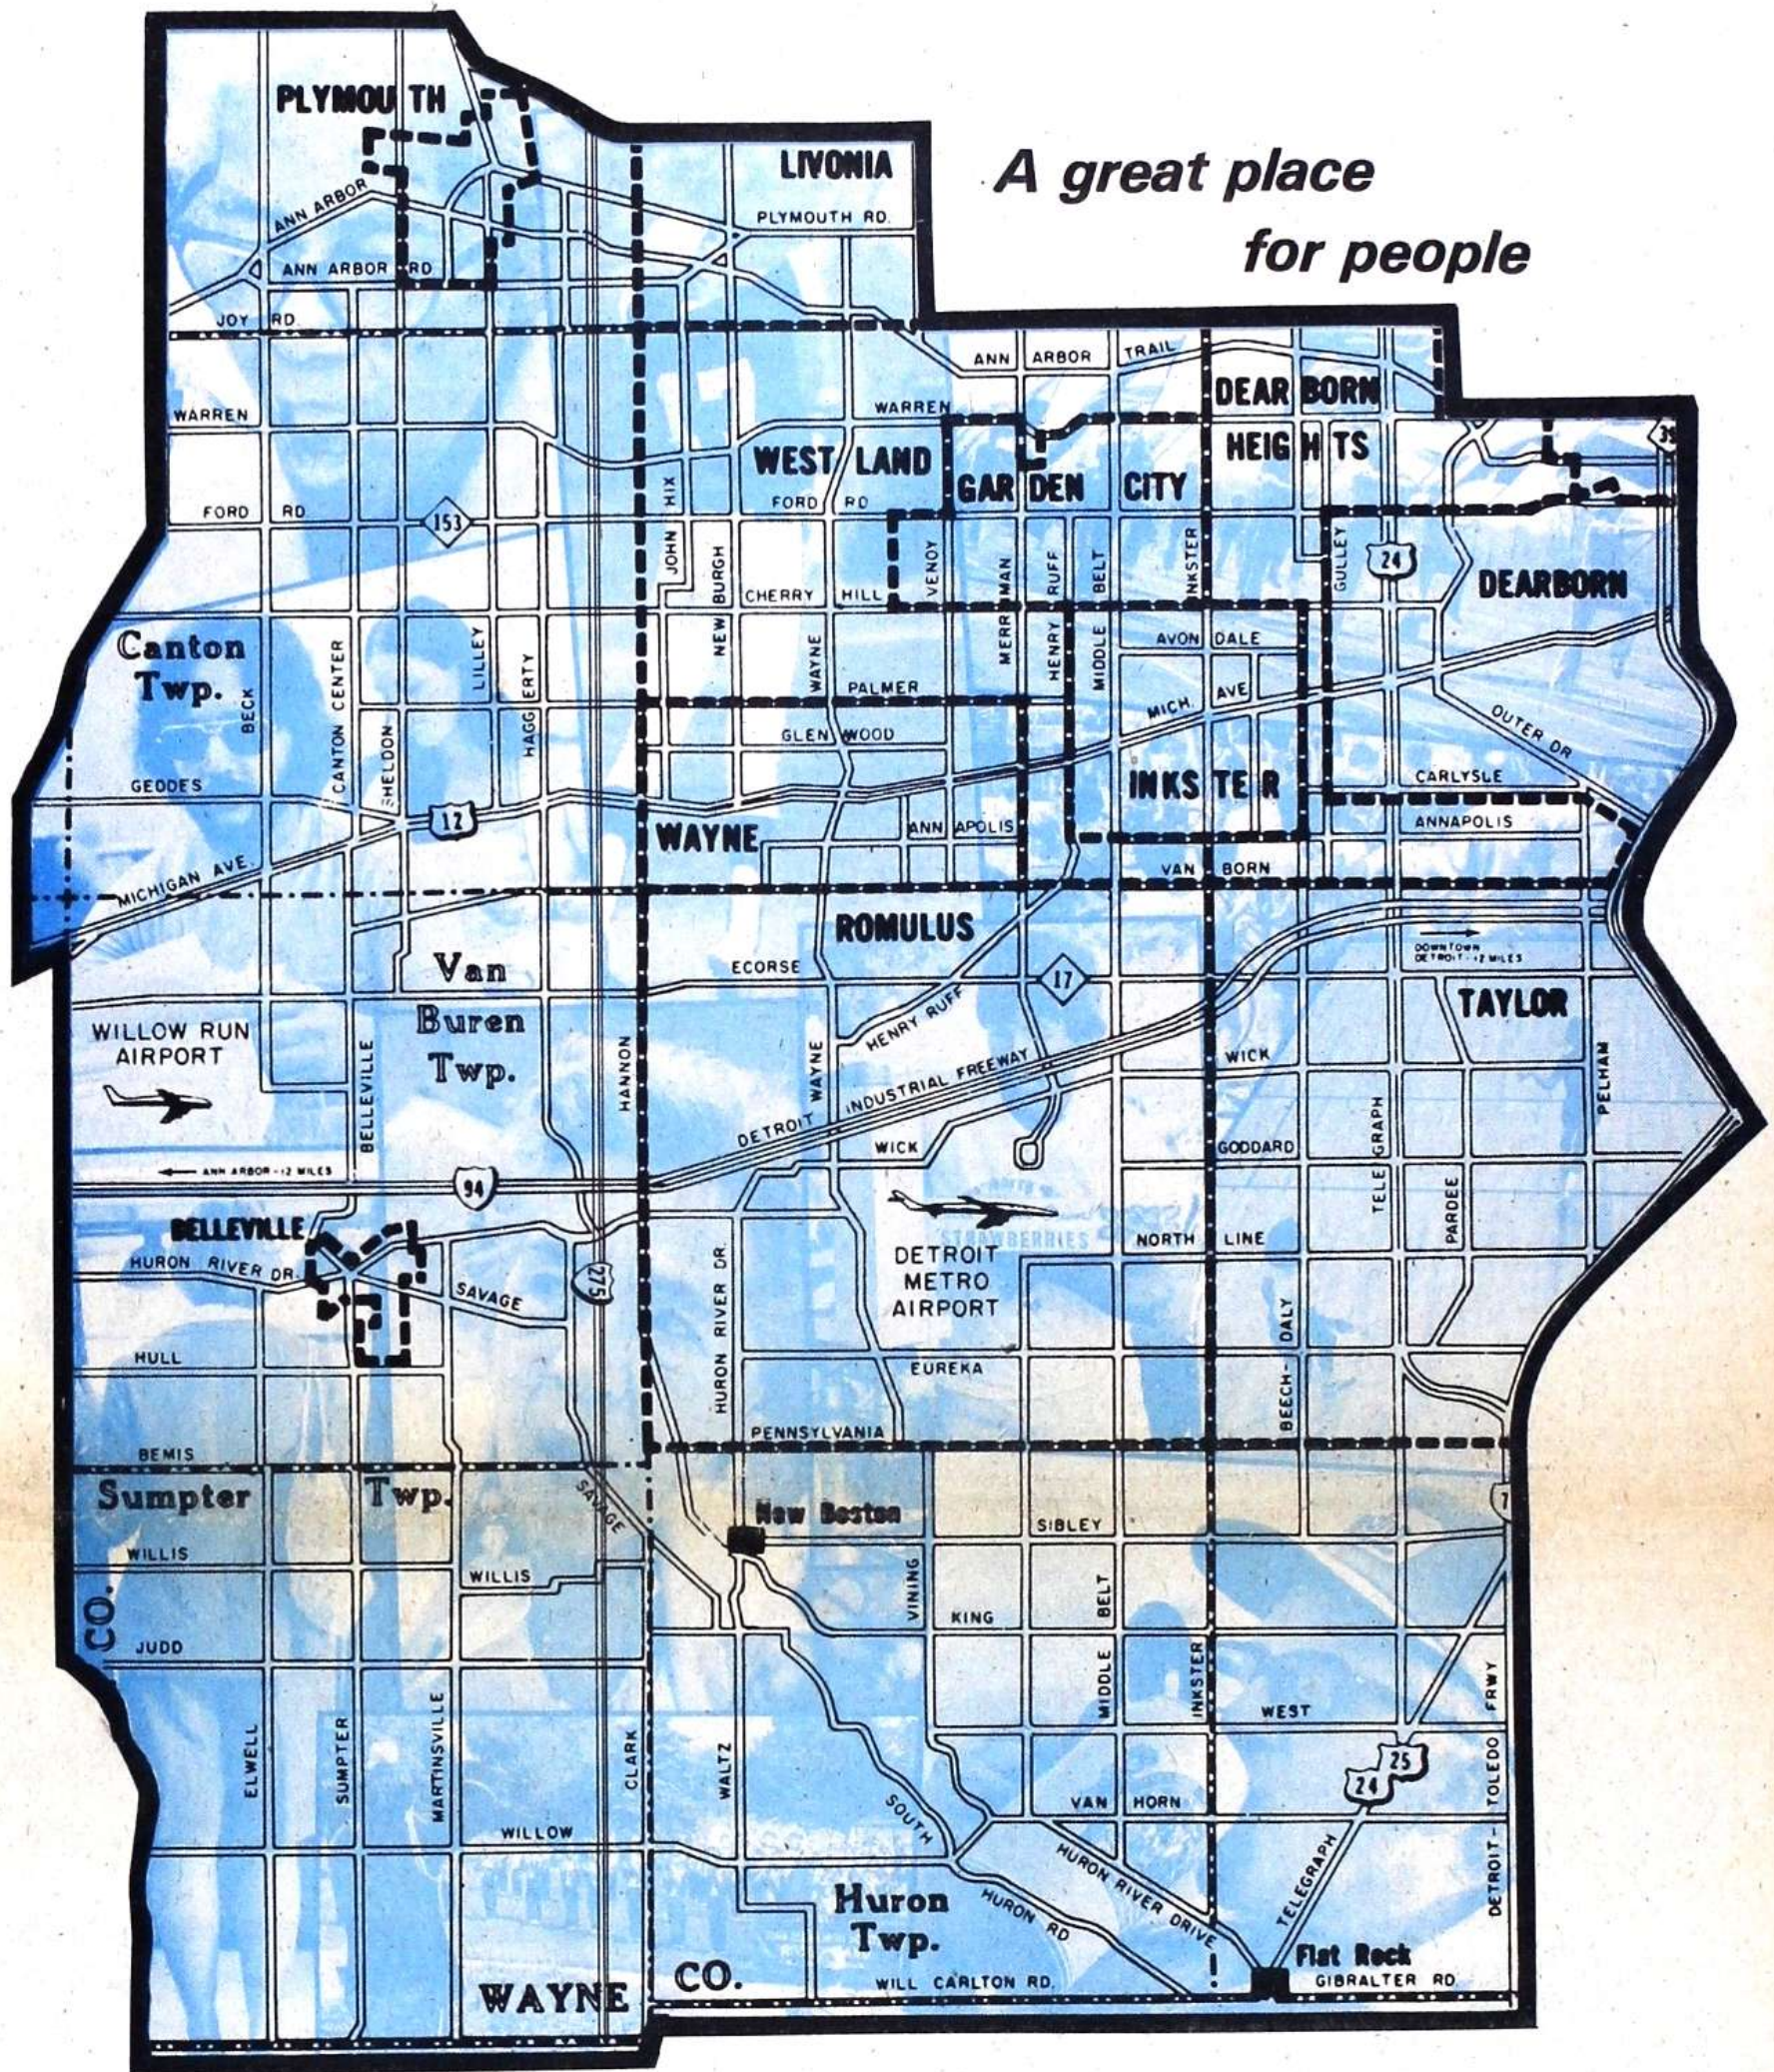

Coupled with the mass exodus to the suburbs is the growing number of problems now facing these hardy pioneers who are making a new life for themselves in the outer reaches of the third largest county in the United States.

No better barometer of the progress being made in suburbia can be found than the health of the economy of the entire region. To ascertain just how well the out-county suburbs are doing, and where they are headed, Associated Newspapers' editorial department has analyzed the communities it serves, all of which fall in Western Wayne County.

ANP was aided in its study of the economy of central and western Wayne County by bank officials and economists and businessmen who do business with the area's inhabitants on a day-to-day basis. To this end, they have contributed data and facts which help greatly in the task of determining the state of health of the region's economy.

ANP hopes its readers find this 8-page Financial Section enjoyable and educational. Your comments will help us to decide whether our first financial section is a success.

To that end, ANP wishes you good reading.

NBD sees steady progress in '78

By HARRY L. LAPHAM
Vice President
National Bank of Detroit

The outlook for southwestern Wayne County promises to be one of steady forward progress in the year ahead, with long-term prospects for dramatic economic growth.

Harry L. Lapham is vice president and director of the Metro South Regional Banking Center of National Bank of Detroit. This region includes some 15 NBD offices serving the communities of Wayne, Garden City, Inkster, Belleville, Dearborn Heights, Westland and Romulus.

Our area, along with the rest of the state and nation, has made a good recovery from the depths of the 1974-75 recession. That recovery should continue into 1978, although perhaps at a somewhat slower rate.

The recovery has largely been led by the consumer. Although unemployment remains a problem, more persons are working today than ever before. Real per capita income — adjusted for inflation — has grown by more than 10 percent nationally, and an even more impressive 18 percent in Michigan.

The optimistic forecasts of General Motors and Ford, southwestern Wayne County's principal employers, bode well for a continued high rate of employment, as does expanding retail sales activity in areas such as Westland.

Recent surveys show that consumer confidence remains at a high level. Coupled with the fact that incomes are rising somewhat faster than inflation, the indications are that consumers are both willing and able to spend.

As bankers, our job is to provide the funds needed to sustain this growth. National Bank of Detroit's experience in southwestern Wayne County bears out this steady economic growth. Installment loan demand, particularly for automobile financing, continues to be very strong. A further sign of the economic strength of the area is the extremely low rate of delinquency and default on these loans. The overwhelming majority of our customers in this region are hard-working people who pay their bills promptly.

With the exception of Canton Township, where new residential construction has been booming, mortgage activity in the southwestern Wayne County communities might best be characterized as stable, with most loans made on existing housing. Here again, the rates of delinquency and default have been minimal. We anticipate a moderate increase in mortgage lending here in 1978, along with a corresponding increase in loans for (Continued on Page B-4)

Employment strong for '78

By TOM LEROY
T.L.C. Personnel Agency, Inc.

The occupational employment market in the Western Wayne County area is expected to remain strong throughout 1978. According to a number of indicators, the major growth trends will continue to be in the professional and technical areas. This is not restricted to the Western Wayne County area alone.

According to sources at Michigan Employment Securities Commission (MESC), the growth and replacement job openings in all occupational areas throughout the state of Michigan are expected to approach an average 150,000 positions per year until 1985.

The white collar area, which includes management, professional, technical, administrative, and clerical occupations, will account for an estimated 46 percent of all jobs in Michigan. Projected job openings in the clerical-secretarial field alone will reach 32,000 this year. Management positions should account for over 15,000 jobs.

Blue collar workers, should have an additional 34,000 job openings this year throughout the state.

The medical field, suffering severe personnel shortages throughout 1977, will continue to require substantial numbers of trained, professional people. Registered nurses, clinical lab technicians, and medical secretaries should have little problem finding new positions in 1978.

The condition of educational employment throughout the state continues to be bleak. Forecasts of continued declines in college and university staffs, secondary and elementary teachers, and support personnel are standard throughout Michigan.

Locally, industrial management officials forecast an expected increase in engineering, managerial, and systems personnel this year. Clerical and supportive personnel openings are also expected to increase, in the industrial sector, by about 20 to 30 percent over 1977 figures.

Representatives of the utilities in the area respond that their needs will remain quite stable this year with only minimal replacement or growth. Manufacturers are indicating some expansion in a number of job areas. Experienced data-processing personnel, secretarial, clerical, sales and marketing employees are going to be in demand.

Private personnel service agencies in Western Wayne County are already recording increases in demand for experienced accounting, clerical, engineering, design, data processing, sales and management personnel. Most agency owner-managers forecast at least 20 to 30 percent increases in all occupational job orders and expect a shortage of experienced people to fill the job openings.

These indicators, along with the continued growth in building — both residential and industrial, new demand for services to the Western Wayne County area, newly completed expressways which link the area with other Metro areas — all tend to support the predictions and forecasts for a strong occupational employment market in 1978.

Record $24 million in 1977

Romulus tops industrial, commercial work

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

The list of industrial and commercial developments in the ANP circulation area of Western Wayne County in 1977 was topped by more than $24 million worth of development in Romulus alone.

In attaining that $24 million of construction, the city more than doubled its development activity of the year before, according to Ed Fall, director of the building department.

And, he has his sights set at a $30 million year in 1978.

One of the biggest catalysts for such outstanding development, according to Hyle Carmichael, economic developer, is the city's location near transportation outlets, a factor that any producer is keenly interested in when deciding where to locate.

Two major expressways and two railway systems run through Romulus, and the city is the home of the Detroit Metropolitan Airport. These plusses in distribution and shipping attract businesses to the many industrially and commercially zoned areas of the city.

"I can see nothing but continued growth in our area," Carmichael said.

And any taxpayer can tell you that continued economic growth broadens the tax base, to the delight of area citizens.

Some of the outstanding work begun or completed in 1977 include two projects of the General Motors Corporation. New $2.3 million lab facilities have already been built by the corporation, and a multi-million dollar warehouse addition and new manufacturing unit will bring at least another $11 million worth of construction as well, not to mention millions that will be spent on equipping the plants, and the 1,000 new jobs expected from the project by 1982.

A new Wayne County Road Commission yard being built will total $9 million, Fall and Carmichael added. Michelin Tire just completed building a $3 million building. All told, more than three dozen industrial projects were begun in 1977, according to building department records.

Other communities in Western Wayne County cannot be forgotten when looking at the total development picture, however.

In the city of Wayne last year, commercial development has forged ahead with the beginning of construction of the $3 million addition to Michigan Bell building at Michigan Avenue and Second Street. The construction of a new A & P Supermarket and Revco Drug Center south of Metro Place Mall is well under way, and will total more than $1 million when completed this year.

The city itself is embarking on a $750,000 project that will add four racquetball courts and exercise facilities to the Wayne Community Center.

Another $135,000 in other commercial activity, new buildings or additions, have begun, including a new restaurant on Michigan Avenue at Wayne's border with Canton Township. A major industry-related development has been a 25,000 square-foot addition to the Ford Motor Company - Michigan Truck Plant, at a valued cost of $425,000.

The total of commercial and industrial activity begun in 1977 comes to upwards of $5 million in Wayne.

City Manager Patrick Cullen is in the process of putting together a plan to form in Wayne an Economic Development Corporation, a non-profit corporation recently permitted under new state legislation, that serves as a vehicle for providing low-interest loans for industrial and commercial development. He hopes this corporation will help further development in Wayne even more in 1978.

The biggest feather in Westland's development cap this year is a $2.4 million General Motors Warehouse addition under construction now on Newburgh Road. Farther down the road, the city is completing work on an industrial park, again financed through a federal Local Public Works grant, which will bring in industrial developers in 1978 and future years. It is one of three industrial parks going in the city, according to economic developer Bob Stevens.

Westland is also the site of the $10 million Educational Service Center complex being built through federal and state grants by the Wayne-Westland Community Schools.

A steel warehouse, put up by Craft Steel and Supply at a cost of, $340,000, has also recently been completed.

Commercially, Westland has added Fiesta Bowling Lanes, valued at $800,000. The Birch Hill Shopping plaza, including an A & P Supermarket, at Cherry Hill and Newburgh roads, was completed and opened in 1977.

Another project begun in 1977 and scheduled for completion in the spring is the YMCA 25-meter swimming pool and locker room in Westland, valued at $770,000.

Smaller commercial developments include a Firestone outlet, three-store shopping plaza, and various additions to existing buildings.

Stevens foresees an excellent year for economic development in Westland in 1978, including location of small industries in the city's industrial parks, where ready-to-build sites are available with all utilities. Planned for 1978 is a $1.3 million building in the Campbell Industrial Park.

Canton Township has some $1.1 million listed by their building department in commercial development for which permits were drawn in 1977.

Among those projects were a $270,000 addition to Super Bowl Bowling Lanes, the Down River Federal Savings and Loan construction, and groups of stores at two shopping center sites in the township.

Permits for a White Castle Restaurant in Canton valued at $300,000 were taken out in September.

Industrial construction in the township has consisted mainly of work on several warehouses in Canton's Industrial Park, which is nearly full.

In 1978, a multi-million dollar major recreation complex, including bowling alley, racquetball courts and more, is planned for Canton.

Professional office and other commercial buildings have also been added to the tax base.

Canton, which has enjoyed the biggest residential growth during 1977 in all of Wayne County, has its sights set at increasing industrial activity in the future, perhaps by increasing industrially-zoned land areas.

Inkster, too, is looking to the future for industrial and commercial growth, and to that end recently hired the national firm of Elon Mickels and Associates to perform the duties of economic development coordinator for the city. In Inkster, too, the creation of an Economic Development Corporation has been undertaken.

Projects that did begin in 1977 include construction of a $2.9 million SEMTA Bus terminal at Henry Ruff and Michigan Avenue and a U-Haul Trailer building. The city began building a new $800,000 fire station in November.

Also in the works is a $80,000 convenience store, and completed projects included a $35,000 chicken carry-out restaurant and addition to the Creith and Woodford Lumber Co.

Improvements have started on the 45-acre industrial park, and the year brought opening of a new full service Secretary of State office.

Planned for 1978 is the beginning of work on an 18-hole municipal golf course and a major development at the central city site.

Most important in the future development of Sumpter Township is a receipt of a $4 million federal grant to expand its public water system by installation of new lines. The lines will bring relief to residents using well water and could open up new building in the southern part of the township.

About a dozen new commercial and industrial developments have been started in Van Buren Township in 1977, most noteworthy being a $1.5 million racquetball center with lounge and restaurant. The project is being built by Sports Illustrated Court Clubs, a national organization, at I-94 and Denton Road, and March 1 of this year is the target completion date.

Another project that is projected for 1978 is construction of a 113-unit motel along the I-94 expressway in Van Buren.

In looking back over 1977 for the town of Belleville, Mayor Justin Emerson elaborated on some accomplishments that will make that city a better place to live.

Utilizing existing buildings in renovation, the old National Bank of Detroit building was purchased by Keim Realty after the bank relocated in early 1977. Another building was acquired by the city and transformed into a new fire hall.

The city hall got a new parking lot, and some sections of the city got new drains, water lines, or paving.

A new restaurant may be located at the site of a store now going out of business, and a small shopping center, with party store, laundromat and other facilities is in the works. Of course, the biggest project is a new addition to Belleville High school, a $3.3 million project financed federally through Local Public Works.

1977 Income Taxes

Open a Security Bank 7³/₄% Individual Retirement Account by February 14, 1978, and take a tax deduction on 1977 income.

A recent government ruling has extended the period for opening a tax-sheltered IRA Account and earning a tax break on last year's income taxes. Now you have until February 14, 1978 to open an Individual Retirement Custodial Account (or add to your existing IRA Account) at Security Bank and use the deposit as a deduction on your 1977 tax return.

A Security Bank Individual Retirement Custodial Account is as easy to open as a regular savings account. It offers a 7³/₄% annual rate with a three-year maturity and is automatically renewable. With quarterly compounding, the effective annual yield is 7.977%. Annual statements are provided.

Qualifications You qualify for this tax-sheltered retirement account if you are not currently a participant in any employer-sponsored retirement plan. What's more, an additional IRA Account can be opened for your spouse as long as he or she is not employed and receives no compensation.

Tax Savings Contributions up to $1,500 (or 15% of compensation, whichever is less) are deductible from adjusted gross income each year. A spouse's additional IRA Account increases the maximum to $1,750. All contributions and the interest earned on your IRA Account accumulate tax-free until withdrawn at retirement.

Open-End Feature Deposits must be in the amount of $25 or more. However, you can make as many deposits to the account as you wish in order to accumulate your annual contribution. Each deposit earns from the day of deposit. All deposits made during a calendar year have the same maturity date—three years from December 31 of the year in which the deposits are made.

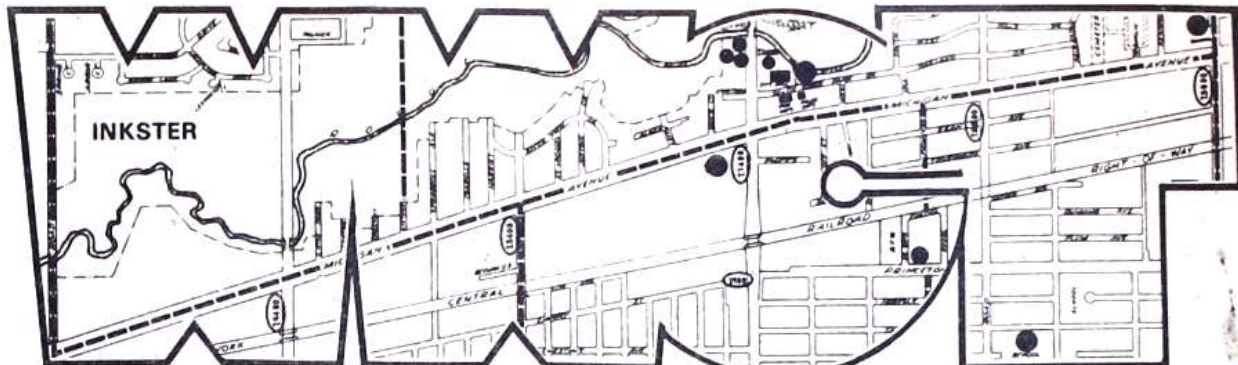

Start Now For more information, or to open your account, call 283-5000 or visit any Security Bank and Trust branch office.

Withdrawal from an IRA Account without penalty may be made at age 59½ or in the case of death or permanent disability. Otherwise Federal law and regulation prohibit the payment of a time deposit prior to maturity unless three months of the interest thereon is forfeited and interest on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the passbook rate. There is also a substantial I.R.S. penalty for early withdrawal. This account is subject to IRA rules and regulations.

$24 Million for Western Wayne

By SUE McDONALD
ANP News Editor

A massive dose of "medicine", aimed at easing the side effects of unemployment, has injected $23,975,742 in federal funds into Western Wayne County, giving it the "shot in the arm" needed to spur new development and growth.

The "medicine" was part of the federal government's Local Public Works Act that funneled $45,591,378 into the 15th Congressional District, about 52 percent of which has been collected by 10 communities and school districts in Western Wayne County.

And the "medicine" has proven to be just the treatment the area needed.

Reeling under the effect of a 10 percent unemployment rate, the western Wayne communities plied Uncle Sam with proposals of new government offices, recreation complexes, fire stations and parking structures, all designed to improve the quality of life in the area while creating new jobs.

The proposals were good. Canton Township, one of the county's "boom" communities, gathered in $2,715,300 for an administration building. Nearby Huron Township is working on a sewer line extension with its $1,189,000 grant. The City of Inkster's $954,600 is being used for police and court facilities, while Romulus is building a court facility and new fire station.

And the figures go on. Sumpter Township is building a new township hall with its $257,690. Van Buren Township will have a new fire station and other municipal facilities when its $237,457 is spent. Wayne's downtown parking congestion will be eliminated by a parking garage, being built with its $1,944,671 in grant money.

The largest amounts of funds, however, went to the area's largest community and two school districts.

The City of Westland, with an estimated 87,000 population, collected $2,361,253 for a recreational complex in its developing central city park, $1,294,370 for the beginning of an industrial park and $191,000 for street and water improvements in poverty areas.

The Wayne-Westland Community Schools attracted the second largest amount of Public Works grant money for school districts in the nation, collecting $8,199,000 for an educational complex it is locating in Westland. Unique to the area, the center will house the district administrative offices, a vocational education center and respite center and educational buildings for the handicapped.

And the Van Buren School District's aging high school is getting a $3,313,103 renovation and remodeling that will create space for new science department and laboratories, library-media materials center and more classrooms.

The effect of such an injection of federal money has been immediate. The job market has improved in Western Wayne County, and cities, townships and schools are getting much needed facilities without a further burden on their taxpayers.

But what does it mean to the future of the area?

The overall view of the effect of LPW grants on the years to come, according to local officials, is one of new growth.

The grants have not only been used to improve life standards now, but to open new areas for commercial, industrial and residential development.

In Huron Township, with a population of 8,900 people, the new sewer lines, about ready to be made operational, have opened up the central portion of the community for commercial and residential development.

"It means growth in a centralized area" is how township Supervisor John Puskar described it. "It would not have been possible to have such an opportunity without the grant."

In Romulus, the grants have spurred city officials to look at new programs like the revitalization of its downtown area, returning it to what it looked like at the turn of the century with cobblestone streets.

The grant also has given not only Romulus, but Huron, Sumpter and Van Buren townships and Belleville a new court facility, solving an ongoing problem of how to finance such a structure.

In Wayne, it already has stirred new interest in the development of the city's central business district.

According to City Manager Pat Cullen, the city expects an agreement on development near the construction site even before the parking garage is completed later this year.

He added that the community could not have financed such a project "without outside help", saying that concentrating parking in a smaller area has opened adjoining lands for development.

And Belleville High School's facelifting will have a far reaching impact on the area, according to Doug Brown, director of instruction and grant coordinator.

"The taxpayers should be pleased," he said. "We would have had to have asked for a bond issue, which isn't too popular right now, then the project would have cost about $7 million, with interest."

He added that the "high school has overcrowded conditions", a fact brought out in the grant application, "making it (the district) unable to fulfill the needs of what the students would expect and should get from their education."

In Canton Township, residents will find that "this (the new township hall) is an opportunity to set up government as it should be, with room to operate", according to Mike Gorman, finance director. It also means a saving of about $5 million, costs that would have had to have been figured in a township-sponsored plan.

"The building probably will be sufficient for our needs for at least 10 years," he explained. "We have a basement and upper levels to allow for growth in government over the next 10 years."

"It also is an excellent opportunity to establish a library without building a building."

In Westland the story is the same. Its development of a central city park, stretching from Ford Road to Marquette, the construction of a senior citizens residential and the new school complex has spurred an idea of developing an institutional boulevard to handle the expected traffic problems.

Coupled with existing facilities—the city's only high school, Senior Friendship center and Department of Public Service Building—90 percent of the road's right-of-way from Wayne to Newburgh roads is occupied by governmental agencies.

An expected indirect effect of the school construction will be the attraction of specialists in the educational field and the possible relocation of families, with handicapped children, nearer to the respite center.

Less than a mile from those two construction sites, the city has laid the groundwork for an industrial park. Coupled with the work of the Economic Development Corporation, the potential exists of locating industry within reach of railroad facilities and area expressways.

The Public Works money obviously has given the area the boost it needed to revive its lagging development. What comes in the future remains to be seen, but right now residents can expect the best their tax dollars can buy.

I-275: Gateway to development

Recreation: Millions spent in local suburbs

Wayne County will spend nearly $7 million this year on parks and recreation making sure that year-round outdoor activities are open to county residents.

According to John Barr, chairman of the Wayne County board of commissioners, there will be no noticeable decrease in county-run park services which are operated by the road commission. However, the park budget was trimmed by approximately $50,000. The board chairman said the cuts represent a few personnel positions and some equipment.

"The newest addition to the county park system is the Eliza Howell Interpretive Nature Center costing $750,000," Barr announced. "The center is located on the western border of Detroit at Five Mile and Telegraph Roads and is easily accessible to western Wayne county residents," he said.

Totalling 4,250 recreational acres, the county park system includes: five community parks, two lengthy parkways, a forest and wildlife preserve, four roadside park sites, a marina and a nature center.

Barr said, "The greatest portion of our recreational space lies in western Wayne County." He added that the space includes the Middle Rouge and Lower Rouge parkways as well as three parks along the Huron River operated by the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority (HCMA).

The board chairman said that the commissioners appropriated $3,241,660 to operate and maintain the park system this year which is $50,495 less than last year.

He said that membership in the HCMA is financed by a quarter mill mandatory tax which was approved by voters in 1940. Barr explained that HCMA has 10 metropolitan parks of which three, Lower Huron Metro-Park, Willow Metro Park and Oakwoods Metropark, are located in southwestern end of the county.

An assessment from the county of $3,746,280 for the operation of the HCMA parks marks an increase of $78,465 over the 1975-76 appropriation, Barr said.

Fees are charged at only two of the county park services. According to Barr, golf rates went up at Warren Valley Golf Course in Dearborn Heights and residents will be charged for parking at the marina in Elizabeth Park in Trenton. However, special weekday golfing rates for school teams, youths and senior citizens are available.

Breakdown of the county park system includes:

Bell Creek Park in Redford Township on Five Mile and Inkster Roads. The park's 64 acres offer picnic and playground areas; softball, football and baseball fields; tennis, horseshoe and shuffleboard courts, and a skating rink.

Elizabeth Park in Trenton has 162 acres, including a marina. Picnic areas on the water, nature trails, tennis courts and indoor recreation facilities are the features of the park. Pony rides are available from a private concession during the summer season for a fee.

Located in Redford Township, between Five and Six Mile Roads, Lola Valley Park has 58 acres. Sledding, hiking and three skating rinks are offered.

On 13 acres in Hamtramck, the main features at Veterans Memorial Park include handball and tennis courts, an artificial skating rink, softball diamonds and a baseball diamond with stadium seating.

Belleville's Victory Park has three acres with picnicking and playground facilities.

Lower Rouge Parkway, crossing Wayne, Westland and Inkster, has 1,053 acres with 280 of those fully developed. It extends westward from Michigan Avenue in Dearborn to Canton Center Road in Canton Township. The three basic recreational areas are: Inkster Area, between Inkster Road and John Daly; Merriman-Venoy Area, between Merriman and Venoy roads on the Wayne-Westland border; and Wayne Field, between Wayne and Howe roads. Recreational park facilities including eight skating rinks are available in all areas and Wayne Field has a football field as well as facilities for track events.

Out of the 2,258 acres in Middle Rouge Parkway, only 50 acres are undeveloped. Beginning in Northville, the parkway passes through Northville Township, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Livonia, Westland, Canton Township, Garden City, Dearborn Heights and Dearborn. It features a new seven-mile bikeway which starts on Seven Mile Road in Northville. Also featured are a natural history museum, golf course and 16 skating areas.

William P. Holliday Forest and Wildlife Preserve, located in Westland and Canton Township between Joy and Warren Roads, has 501 acres with nearly 12 miles of hiking trails.

Expenditures for recreational facilities in Wayne County are not expected to exceed the $7 million mark this year, nor is it foreseen that spending will increase or decrease in 1979.

Single-family and apartment construction boom

Population explodes to 37,000

Canton leads in housing; 1,466 new homes in 1977

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

More homes were built in Canton Township in 1977 alone than existed in the entire township in 1960.

The community currently has a population of 37,000 people, more than triple the number shown on the 1970 census records.

And that is the story of Canton and its phenomenal building boom of recent years. The township led the county last year in new residential building, recording 1,466 new single family homes in 1977 and spearheading a trend of residential growth in Western Wayne County. Building Department records in Canton show that building permits were issued for homes totalling a whopping $50 million in value during the year.

In 1976, the year's total for new homes was 1,043, showing an increase in 1977 of more than 400 homes, and a trend that is going nowhere but up.

Although cautious about predictions, Canton officials expect this year's building to bring at least an equal, if not better, showing.

One of Canton's neighbors also has an eye on housing development, evidenced not only by its 1977 statistics, but its big plans for 1978.

Construction work began on 588 multiple (apartment) units in the city of Westland in 1977, coupled with 60 new single-family homes, as reported by its building department. The bulk of the apartment units come from two senior citizen high-rise apartments being built which will offer 476 units for seniors.

But Planning Director Michael Drake predicts 1978 will be a "banner year" for residential construction in Westland.

His department currently has plans for four subdivisions being readied for presentation to the planning commission and eventually to the city council. Two of them have received a preliminary planning commission approval, and Drake expects the models to be up this spring.

One of them is for 207 lots, measuring 70 feet, in the area of Hix and Koppernick roads. This would mean homes that are about 1,500 square feet in size.

Another of the soon to be proposed plans is for a subdivision of 157 homes on 60-foot lots, third plan is for larger homes on 80-foot lots, and the fourth is for medium-sized lots in a subdivision that can hold 165 homes.

Naturally, Drake explained, subdivisions take three to four years to fully develop. First steps in subdivision development include putting in streets, lighting, sewers and utility work, along with model homes.

More apartment building may also be in the future for Westland, and such a substantial multi-family development is expected to be in the planning department for site plan review in a few months, Drake said. He said that Westland is looking for a "a very prosperous couple of years" ahead in the housing development department.

The city of Wayne, although an older and more established town, is continuing with new building, particularly in the Glenwood Heights Subdivision area. Building permits were taken out for 68 homes in Wayne last year, said city engineer Richard Gillespie. The residential construction totalled about $2 million worth of construction activity.

Other residential building in the area maintained a steady level, with Van Buren Township seeing 56 new homes and 22 mobile homes providing housing for residents, Sumpter Township adding 39 houses, and Romulus 23. Inkster and Belleville, both quite settled communities, experienced little residential building.

Areas growing in citizens are also busy building their services to cope with growing needs, while the more stable population communities work at promoting quality of service to make residents comfortable and eager to stay in the community.

Western Wayne set realty mark

By CONRAD JAKUBOWSKI,
1978 President
Western Wayne-
Oakland County
Board of Realtors

Areas covered by Associated Newspapers were among those helping the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors set new records for existing home sales in 1977.

Although a change in our statistical procedures makes individual comparisons impossible, it appears that unit sales in the Wayne, Westland, Garden City, Inkster areas were up some 33 percent above the previous record high in 1976.

Led by Westland, these four cities comprised an extremely active market for existing homesales with more than 2,500 sold by WWOCBR members in 1977. This compares with 1,884 sold by our members in 1976.

Reflecting both higher average prices and the increased number of units sold, dollar volume climbed from about $51 million to nearly $73 million. The average home price rose nearly eight percent from $26,968 to $29,111.

Primary buyers in the area appeared to be young married couples purchasing their first home while a high proportion of sellers were older couples retiring to warmer climates. Buyers under 40 years tended to seek three-bedroom ranch style homes with basements while older buyers appeared to favor Colonial styles. However, the market was strong for all types of homes offered for sale during the year.

Reports from some of our 30 member Realtor offices doing business in Western Wayne County indicate a drop in the number of homes listed for sale. Growth in new single-family construction in the area is expected to help increase available listings in 1978.

These WWOCBR members reported both the opening of I-275 and the number of new homes opened west of it had a very favorable effect for the existing home market. With added industrial growth and an increasing number of people moving into the home-buying market, it is expected that this particular market area will be even stronger in 1978.

The limited amount of available building space through much of this area will continue to push the new housing market westward with higher prices resulting from increased costs of land development. Much of this build-up can be expected to occur in Canton and Van Buren Townships spurred by the convenient transportation offered by I-94 and I-275.

household durable goods and home furnishings.

Our experience with commercial loans, similarly, has been keyed primarily to the activity of smaller commercial and retail businesses which, in turn, depend on consumer spending rather than large-scale industrial development. In 1978 we look forward to continued steady, moderate growth.

The longer-term holds even greater promise for southwestern Wayne County. As the more rapidly growing areas to the north and east become saturated, commercial, industrial and residential development must turn to new locations, and this part of the county is a natural choice. With two major freeways, two railroad lines, two airports, attractively priced land and a solid labor force, our area is positively ripe for development.

The recent decision of the Ford Motor Company to locate its new transmission plant in Ohio was a blow to the progress of the area, but it serves to underscore the need for a public policy that encourages capital spending by the private sector in Michigan. Perhaps it is time for a critical reevaluation of the state's taxation, workers' compensation and minimum wage laws, as well as other measures which bear upon industry's willingness to invest in new plants and equipment in Michigan.

Another barrier to the further development of this area has been the delay in the construction of the so-called "super drain" project. But we are optimistic that when the need becomes strong enough, that barrier will be cleared and the drain completed.

In short, then, 1978 promises to be a good year for southwestern Wayne County. We in the banking community look forward to doing our part to fulfill that promise.

Economist sees continued growth in '78

By THOMAS D. THOMSON
Vice-president, Chief Economist
Detroit Bank & Trust

When the final record is written for 1977, it will be considered a year of "decent" economic performance. Real growth will be approximately five percent and almost four million more people will be employed than at the beginning of the year.

Although forecasting this year seems more hazardous than at the end of any recent previous year, economists are duty bound to render their best judgments. We, at Detroit Bank and Trust, believe the expansion will continue in 1978 albeit at a slower pace than in 1977.

Real growth of four and a half percent seems most likely. This would be a respectable performance even though it is less than the current target of the Carter administration.

A more fundamental reason the probability of a recession should receive low weight is the momentum necessary for real disposable income (after inflation and taxes) to increase more than four percent next year.

Since we are expecting total real output of goods and services to rise about four and a half percent, and consumption to rise four percent, we obviously are looking for greater than four percent growth in some other major sectors. One candidate, business fixed investment, has been a disappointing sector since the beginning of the current expansion. Even now, there are no signs that the nation is on the threshold of an investment boom. Uncertainties about fiscal and monetary policy and the general investment climate are not being rapidly resolved. Financial markets are valuing most firms at less than the cost of replacing present assets which is a severe discouragement to plant and equipment expenditure.

Nevertheless, the operating rates of current capacity has been gradually edging up during the past three years and overall capacity utilization is now up to about 83 percent and will rise to 85 percent by the end of 1978. At operating rates of these levels, firms will find it necessary to do some modernization and expansion of present capacity. Expenditures in this sector should be up six to seven percent. It must be emphasized that this is about half the gain we usually expect at this point in the business cycle and it is far less than the country needs to provide the capital necessary to enhance the productivity of our workers and provide for future economic growth.

The kind of economic growth we have outlined will not likely produce a significant acceleration of inflation in 1978. Growth will continue, but boom conditions are absent both in this country and throughout the world. Worsening inflation may well lie ahead but not in 1978. On the other hand, inflation significantly below six percent is probably not attainable. Labor costs per unit of output are rising at about this rate and show no signs of moderating.

In addition, the decline in the value of the dollar will make imported goods more costly than in 1977. Wholesale prices, which moderated in mid-1977, increased in late 1977 and will affect the consumer in early 1978. On the brighter side, it appears that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries will post no or little increase in oil prices in 1978.

A decline in both inflation and real transactions caused nominal GNP growth to slow to an estimated 10 percent during the last half of 1977. Our projected four and a half percent real growth and six percent inflation for 1978 will put nominal GNP in the ten to eleven percent range. Thus money supply growth may moderate somewhat compared to the last few quarters. Money may still slightly exceed Fed targets and they may induce another round or two of credit tightening.

The rise in interest rates, however, will not be nearly as large as many market participants now fear. The economy will be a bit sluggish and monetary policy makers will probably have to ease somewhat before 1978 is closed.

In summary, 1978 will be one in which economic progress continues. Some sectors will be less than buoyant and our diet of regular economic statistics will be somewhat mixed between positives and negatives with the positives having a slight edge.

THOMAS D. THOMSON

current lack of severe economic imbalances that almost always precede recessions. For example, in the period prior to the 1974-75 downturn, very high inflation caused anticipatory buying on the part of consumers and business firms. Inventories were immense and a correction was naturally inevitable. Inventories, presently, are a little too large but far from the gross unbalances of the past. Another example is consumer debt. Although debt financing has increased in 1977, the level of debt compared to income is not at frightening heights.

High interest rates are viewed by many as a prelude to a downturn. In 1975 and 1976, interest rates stayed surprisingly low. This past year's rebound brought short-term interest rates into approximate equality with the rate of inflation. The person getting six percent on 90-day Treasury bills is being compensated at about the current rate of price increase. By these standards, interest rates are not high. In fact, interest rates below the rate of inflation feeds future inflation since there is an inducement to not save or to borrow to buy goods in anticipation of price increases.

Recession in 1978 is not our major worry. The gains in employment and compensation currently being experienced should provide

Suburbs: So alike, but different

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

High consumer confidence and inflation-beating incomes are prompting consumers in western Wayne County to spend their money for the things they need and want—signs of a healthy and growing economy.

Associated Newspaper's circulation area—Belleville, Romulus, Wayne, Westland, Canton Township and Inkster—lies on the outer fringe of the Detroit city limits. Similarities in population make-up, topography of the land, and a common kinship with the city of Detroit, make it a homogenous territory which shares in the pluses and minuses of the economic barometer.

However much of these communities are alike, a careful scrutiny shows that each is distinctive in what it has to offer in the way of industrial expansion, residential construction, commercial development, public schools and city government.

Situated as they are, a large island of six communities set apart from the mainland of Detroit by different goals and living patterns, this area wants to be considered as its own entity.

No better example of this interdependency of attitude and spirit can be found than the manner in which these six communities and their neighbors banded together recently to oppose the Super Sewer concept of waste water control advocated by the Detroit-dominated Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

Overall, central and western Wayne County must be considered as a separate and powerful economic force when the composition of the area surrounding "The City of Wheels" is put under the magnifying glass and examined.

To see and understand how and what these communities in ANP land contribute to the total economy of the parent Wayne County, the individual positive economic aspects of each locale is capsulized in the following paragraphs.

On the industrial horizon, the city of Romulus spearheads the economic boom with continuing expansion by Detroit Diesel Division of General Motors and construction of a new huge Michelin Tire warehouse facility.

The most significant single influence in this growing economy in Romulus, as well as for all of metropolitan Detroit, is the vast and still-expanding Metropolitan Airport. Physically located within the city limits of Romulus, this major transportation hub also services a six-county area region surrounding Detroit. It occupies one-sixth of the city's 36 square miles.

The airport, proximity to freeways, rail facilities and accessibility to the St. Lawrence Seaway, make Romulus a fast-developing industrial and commercial center.

Although the city retains the quaint country downtown look, an atmosphere of a boom town and a new age pervades the being of its estimated 28,000 inhabitants.

Leadership in residential construction goes to Canton Township and Westland in the ANP circulation area, with the former easily in the forefront.

At the northwest tip of Wayne County, Canton Township's 36 square miles are still largely agricultural, with farmlands, woods and open areas highlighting the topography.

Although the building of houses and multi-family dwellings best characterizes Canton Township, this fledgling giant is just beginning to flex its muscles in other directions. Touched more and more by the expanding economy of huge Metro Airport, the township's planners are preparing blueprints for anticipated growth in the commercial, industrial and agricultural areas.

Today, the eastern half of the township has taken the lead in becoming urbanized while the western half continues to follow agricultural pursuits. The 1970 census population of 11,026 has nearly tripled as Canton Township begins to follow its sister suburbs in the urbanization of its rural lands to industrial uses.

Manufacturing plants are beginning to dot the eastern half of the township and many heavily-traveled highways in the area are expected to shape and mold the Canton Township of tomorrow.

Westland, combined with Canton Township, make up the third fastest growing residential area in the state. Although only a little more than half as large as Canton Township in area, its 20 square miles now house some 87,000 inhabitants.

Emerging from the bedroom community image of Nankin Township as a city in 1966, Westland today is on the threshold of promising all-around growth. Excellent roads and transportation access, proximity to Metro Airport, and an energetic Economic Development Commission, all combine to make Westland an attractive location for new industries and those wanting to get away from the metro rat race.

Westland is the home of Westland Shopping Center, with the J. L. Hudson Company forming the nucleus of the multi-million dollar complex. Much of the city has built up and developed around this area.

The city of Wayne shares industrial significance with Romulus in the communities served by ANP. Today, it is the home of a huge Ford auto plant and a separate truck division, as well as a world-renowned Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing plant and the world headquarters for the UniTrust Corporation.

Wayne and its 22,000 residents take their place among western Wayne County's most important areas as a modern residential-business community with a suburban housing atmosphere and compatible planned business-industrial character.

Recently, Wayne was selected as site of a huge Wayne County Extension Service model farm whose multi-million dollar complex will be used to keep contemporary agricultural life alive for posterity.

Roughly equal in size to Wayne, with its more than six square-mile area, is Inkster. Located in central Wayne County, its approximately 44,000 residents are almost equally divided between blacks and whites.

When the Ford Rouge plant and the downriver area developed industrially in the 1920s, they spurred the growth of Inkster as a residential community.

Although Inkster is surrounded by excellent industrial highways and is just two and a half miles from Metro Airport, it was only recently that the city began to get on the economic bandwagon. Just at the close of 1977, a large SEMTA bus terminal and a U-Haul storage facility were begun, with the city also being considered for a Pepsi-Cola warehouse and bottling plant.

Also, the existing police station building and the fire station structure are being combined into a dual facility. A new fire station building is now under construction. Next summer will see the completion of the park and recreation department's sports center.

City officials are confidently predicting that Inkster will begin to attract more and more industrial facilities and operations as the expansion takes on a snowballing effect.

The push to get more industrial companies is being enhanced by a city beautification program and a large-scale program to tear down and renovate older houses to provide public housing for prospective residents.

Last on the list is the historic and picturesque city of Belleville, whose 3,200 residents live on gently rolling terrain along the southern shoreline of Belleville Lake.

Although noted for its fine rural type living and recreational activities at Belleville Lake, the Belleville area has succeeded in attracting several modern manufacturing firms.

Recent local commercial centers and new residential areas make Belleville an appealing, thriving suburban community. Of major interest is the construction soon of a multi-million dollar racquet club complex at Lemontree Apartments west of Belleville Road and an addition which will be connected to the Van Buren Township Hall for use of senior citizens of the Belleville area.

In conclusion, the individuality of each of the six communities in the ANP circulation area fits together much like the pieces of a jigsaw puzzle to make a complete and homogenous whole.

As many of the leaders in this central and western Wayne County declare, these communities desire an economic divorce from all that is styming and dragging down the industrial giant of Detroit.

Best equitable investment

By GEORGE B. SMITH
President
Ann Arbor Mortgage Corporation
2200 S. Wayne Road

Individual home ownership is one of the last areas of equitable investment available to the average family. With income taxes at the highest levels ever, the inherent tax advantages of home ownership become paramount to the preservation of the relatively "shrinking" take-home pay!

It seems appropriate that we take this opportunity, during January 1978 to let you know that contrary to the mass statistics we often read, you may very well be able to purchase that home you've been wanting! The very nature of reports based on National Statistics precludes their ability to recognize price-income relationships locally.

For example, the Western Wayne County area has a very high level of dual-income families. In addition, we are blessed with a high level of available zero or minimum down-payment financing. Certainly there are financing packages available for a large majority of us, to take that first and most important step into a "starter-home!"

We all recognize there is no equity in renting! In our inflationary economy, the longer we wait the wider the gap to move, even into a "starter-home." Most family budgets cannot allow for large savings each month; if the home you want is now $30,000, it may very well be $33,000 next year. Meanwhile, if you have managed to save $100 per month over the same period, you have actually gone backward $1,800.

The obvious moral is: Unless you can save a large amount monthly (for example, one spouse's total income), it would be wiser to take advantage now of a financing plan that requires a minimum cash outlay! These plans are specifically designed for those of us who have adequate monthly income to handle the fractionally larger monthly payments, but have not been able to accumulate significant down-payment cash!

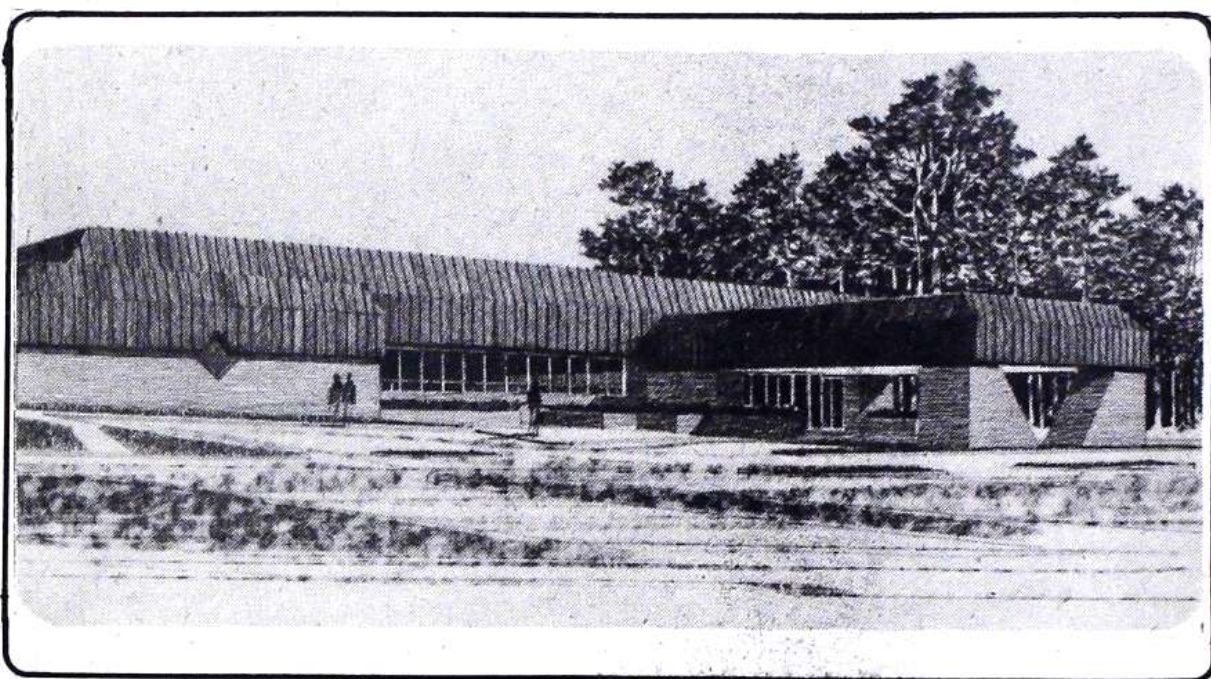

At the very least, any home will give you a significant tax break. At the same time, it will help you build equity through real and inflationary growth in values; thus, you come one step closer to buying or building that ultimate "dream-home!"

Perhaps it's time to see one of your local realtors and re-examine your potential to own a home! Your realtors and realtor-associates are best equipped and trained to advise you in specific cases. Once they have determined your financing capabilities, you are ready to search for the home best suited to your desires and needs, in the appropriate price range. Today, even the search is easy!

Your realtor, participating in the local Multiple Listing Service has daily updated information on all properties for sale. This service includes a weekly publication which supplies a photo and all pertinent data. The obvious advantage to you is the elimination of the tedious and frustrating task of physically reviewing numerous homes which may not fit your immediate needs.

Without this excellent tool, you and your realtor would be forced to observe homes at random, which is akin to "kicking-the-tires" on a used car lot!!

Often, well-meaning friends or family and occasionally an inexperienced lender or sales agent has given ill-advised misinformation, which may have led you to believe that a small fortune in cash was required before you could even consider buying a home! Hopefully, available financing will squelch some of these myths.

Three Belleville employees honored at award dinner

Mrs. Jane Kovach, Mrs. Mary Mumford and Mrs. Millie Townsley, all of Belleville, were among the 11 women who received 15 and 20-year award pins at a special dinner in their honor at Ramada Inn of Romulus. The women are employees of Prophet Food Company and work in the cafeteria at the Ford Rawsonville plant.

Aldine Potter of High Street entertained a group of friends for dinner on Jan. 17. Guests were Velma Kulzer, Marsie McDonald, Thelma Young, Myrtle Kreie and Helen Bunyea.

Mrs. Mabel Ballard has returned home from Linn Hospital in Allen Park and is now feeling stronger.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Shirley of Wexford Street and Wanda's mother, Mrs. Beth Bennett, have arrived back in snowy Belleville after spending three weeks in Florida. They enjoyed the holidays visiting with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lilly and small son, Allan.

On the return trip the trio visited the Ellis Amersmans and the John Tators at Largo as well as the Dewey Bereans and the Earl Bosteders in Leesburg.

Lynn and Jeffrey Saunders of Fraser enjoyed last weekend at the home of Mrs. Margaret Saunders of Liberty Street where they celebrated Lynn's birthday.

The women of the DAR met at the Textile Road home of Mrs. Monita Hopp on Jan. 13 at 9:30 in the morning. After the business meeting the 18 present enjoyed brunch and visiting. Those from the Belleville area attending were Mrs. Esther Deering and Mrs. Dorothy Kellas. Mrs. Lisa McGuire helped her mother serve.

Hazel Schaecher of Westland spent a day in Belleville recently visiting and having lunch with Aldine Potter of High Street.

Mrs. Ethel Klaas of River Rouge enjoyed a visit Jan. 12 and 13 at the Liberty Street home of Mrs. Margaret Saunders.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Lorbeske and family motored to Leesburg, Ala. to visit Dale's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lorbeske. They also had the pleasure of visiting Sea World, Circus World, Cape Kennedy and Disney World. Pat informed us that the weather was quite cool for their 10 days in Florida.

Belleville Area Chamber has ski brochures

Do you like to ski? How about your children?

The Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce has a travel rack full of brochures on Michigan and Canadian ski areas.

Current information includes colorful pamphlets from Mancelona, the Grand Traverse ski country, Gobles, Milford, Brighton, Grayling, Gaylord and Cadillac, all in Michigan, as well as from the Chatsworth, Thornbury and Kimberley ski areas in Ontario. There's even a brochure from the Big Sky area in Montana.

For those interested in trails for cross country skiing and snowmobiling, look for the leaflet from the Flat River State Game Area in Montcalm and Ionia Counties.

For your traveling pleasure in and about the state, there are many other brochures to make your trips more informative.

Tyler, Savage Schools given mementoes of Bicentennial

The two new elementary schools in the Van Buren School System — Tyler and Savage — added touches of nostalgia and history to their premises following a special ceremony Jan. 17 in the Van Buren Schools Administration Building.

Three area women who were all very active during the Bicentennial observance were on hand to present pen and ink sketches which were done especially for the celebration and which were made into note paper for sale during 1976.

Cathy Horste and Diane Wilson, who co-authored "Water Under the Bridge", a history of Van Buren Township, and Sherry Rydinsky, who assisted on the history book committee, made the presentations to Donald Priest, principal of Tyler Road School, Stapleton, principal of Savage Road School, and Patricia Cullin, supervisor of Van Buren Township.

The drawings, the work of Caroline Weiss Becker of Springfield, Ill., included those of the old Tyler Street School, Mud Street School and the old township hall. The school administrators also received packets of the stationery and copies of the township history book.

It is a bit ironic that of the two newest schools in the township, one bears the name and the other the location, of two of the oldest township schools.

Tyler, named for its location, carried the name of the earlier Tyler Street School which was organized as a district in 1835. The old school building still stands at Tyler and Haggerty Roads and is now a private residence.

Savage Road School, built as it is near Martinsville Road, nearly abuts the property of the former Mud Street School. This district was ordered to organize in 1851. The frame school was moved to Henry Street in Belleville and it, too, is being used today as a private residence.

A very limited number of both the book and sketches are available by calling Cathy Horste at 699-7968.

Enrollment to start at Carousel Nursery

Carousel Co-Operative Nursery, which is located at Belleville United Presbyterian Church, 11900 Belleville Road, is currently accepting applications for enrollment in a new class starting Jan. 30. The class will be held on Monday and Wednesday afternoons from 1 to 3:15 p.m. for children 3 to 5 years of age. Tuition is $12.50 per month.

The organization, which is non-profit, non-sectarian and racially nondiscriminatory, has no outside ownership or sponsorship and is affiliated with the Huron Valley Cooperative Nursery Council. Licensed by the Michigan Department of Social Services, the school must meet standards for fire and health safety and children's programs.

The prerequisites for membership are: telephone interview with membership chairman (Mary Smith 697-4661); completion and return of all application forms; payment of first and last month tuition the first day of school (family discount available); having health forms on file; and a $5 per family registration fee.

Parent participation is a must. A parent is required to attend a general meeting once a month, to assist in class two to four days per month and to join a committee and be active.

Children presently enrolled are busy at this time learning colors and shapes. Making Valentines and a special trip to the post office to mail them are next on the agenda.

Lincoln School now offering free adult education classes

Lincoln Consolidated Schools is once again offering an opportunity to complete schooling for a high school diploma or to obtain a vocational skill under a program of free adult education. This is being conducted cooperatively by the Lincoln Schools and the Huron School District.

Classes are being conducted evenings from 6:30 until 9:30 p.m. and are arranged to allow individuals to work at their own levels regardless of previous educational experience.

Most students will have family and adult responsibilities in addition to their school work; most will work an 8-hour day plus their studies. The instructional staff will make every effort to assist students in these circumstances to realize their goal of a diploma or specific occupational skill.

The courses offered are designed to meet the widest possible range of educational needs from basic language skills to electrical wiring to cake decorating.

In adult continuing education, most students may receive extra credit toward high school graduation because of military experience, job experience and standardized testing within the program itself.

Second semester classes will begin Feb. 6 at Lincoln High School, 7425 Willis Road in the office of adult education located in the main office.

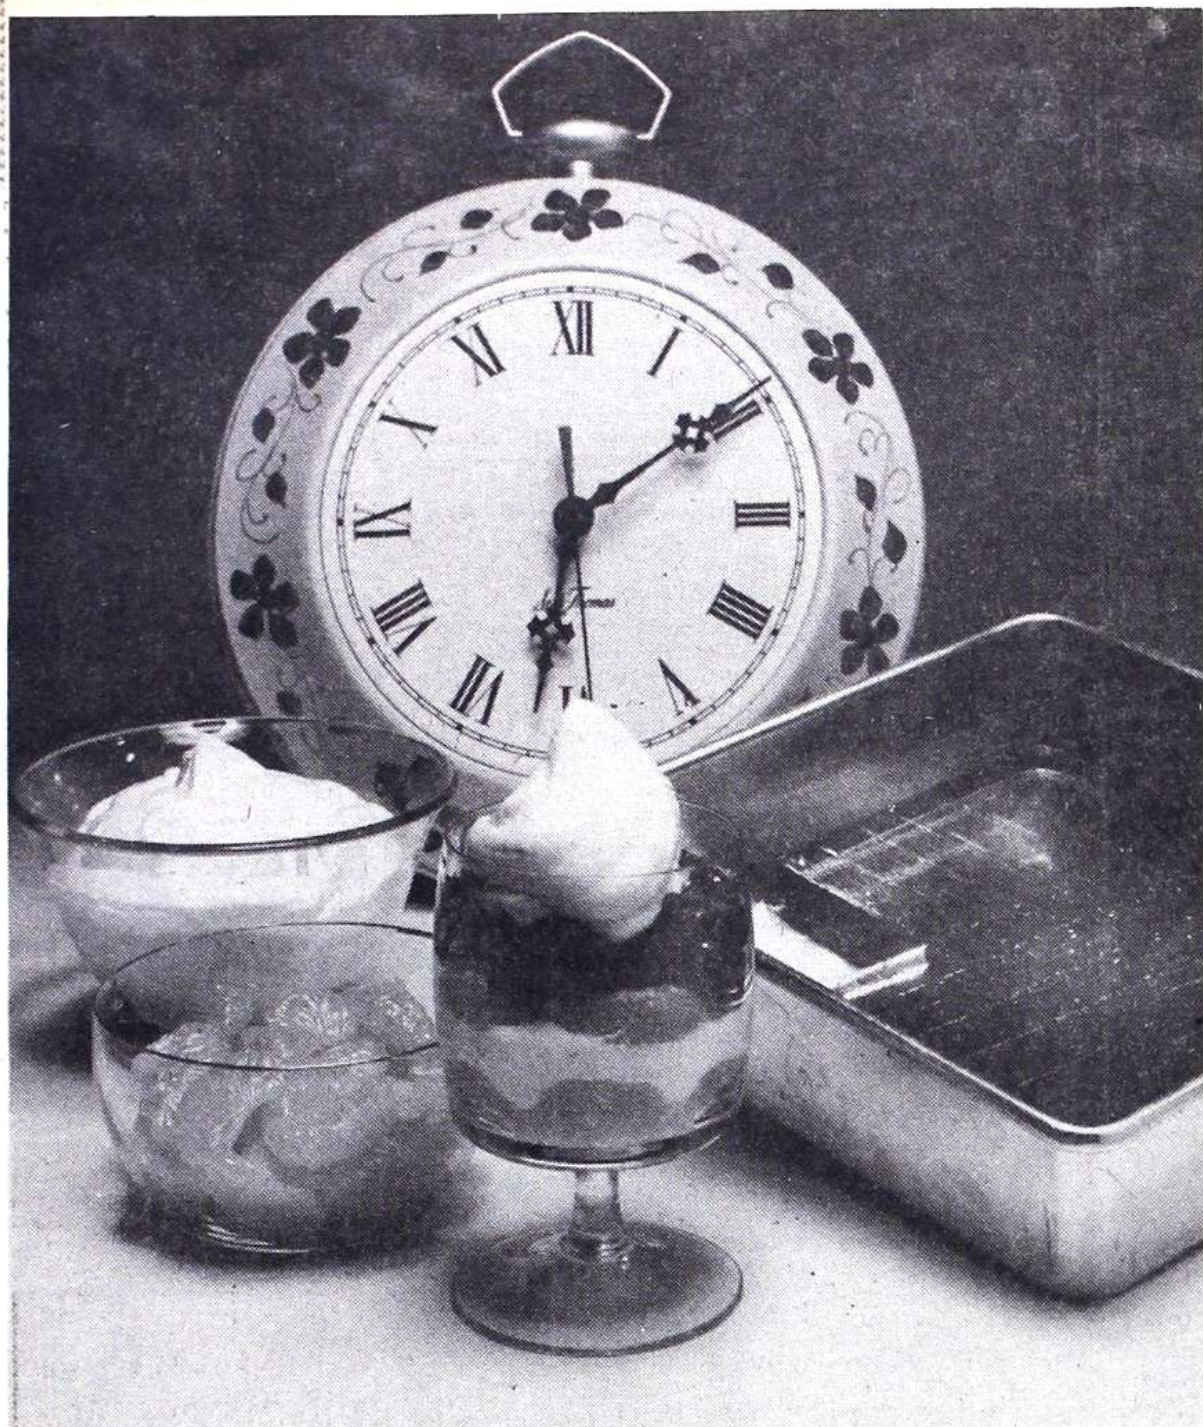

For further information, call Lincoln High School, office of adult education, Monday through Thursday from 6 to 9:30 p.m. or stop in and ask for Ken Appleby. The number to call is 482-8710.

Don't miss out on this great opportunity; call today.

Quotes worth quoting...

"He who is of a calm and happy nature will hardly feel the pressure of age, but to him who is of an opposite disposition, youth and age are equally a burden."

Plato said it.

Beat the clock

When the demands of time are the greatest, select foods that can be prepared quickly. Cube fruit flavor gelatin; then, layer into dessert glasses with canned fruit and

MCF geared to assist mastectomy patients

The Michigan Cancer Foundation's (MCF) Patient and Family Care Service is offering discussion groups for women who have had mastectomy (breast) surgery.

The groups, led by a professional social worker and rehabilitation nurse, give women a chance to talk about the physical, emotional and social problems surgery can sometimes cause with other women who are facing similar experiences.

"Very often, women don't know who to talk to after mastectomy surgery," said MCF social worker, Kathy Lipiec. "Friends and family try to be supportive, but sometimes simply don't know how to help.

"Our groups not only give women someone to talk to, but let them know that they're not alone. There are others who care and want to help."

Winter sessions of the mastectomy discussion groups will meet once a week for eight or 10 weeks, and will be held in three metropolitan locations: MCF East Service Center, 21312 Mack Ave., Grosse Pointe Woods, Tuesdays, beginning Jan. 24 through March 14 from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

MCF Downriver Unit, 425 Eureka, Wyandotte, Wednesdays, beginning Jan. 25 through March 15 from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and MCF Detroit Service Center, 15600 West Seven Mile, Detroit, Thursdays, beginning Jan. 26 through March 30 from 1 to 3 p.m.

To register for the groups, or for more information, call the MCF's Patient and Family Care Service at 833-0710, ext. 301.

The Michigan Cancer Foundation also offers discussion groups for persons who have undergone oostomy, laryngectomy or cervical-uterine surgery, and for young adults who have cancer. It is a Torch Drive—United Way agency.

Quick cubed dessert

Time is a precious commodity, and it becomes even more so when you juggle family responsibilities. Food shopping, food preparation and attending to the basics of household and family living are even more demanding if you hold down a job, even if only part-time.

Along with looking for best buys at the market, it's mainly a matter of selecting foods which offer speed in preparation. Dessert, for example, can be the reward of the meal even if it's the simple combination of fruit flavor gelatin and canned fruits.

It's so easy to prepare the Jell-O gelatin according to package directions and chill until firm in a shallow pan. Then, using a sharp knife which has been dipped in hot water, cut the gelatin into cubes. To remove cubes from the pan, apply a warm wet cloth over bottom of the pan; then lift cubes with a spatula.

Quick Cubed Dessert starts with a layer of canned fruit. After spooning prepared whipped topping over fruit, add another fruit layer and pile on sparkling gelatin cubes. Garnish with another topping dollop.

Strawberry flavor gelatin with mandarin orange sections is a refreshing combination. You may prefer lime flavor gelatin with sliced peaches, or orange flavor gelatin with fruit cocktail. Whatever your preference, the art of cubing fruit flavor gelatin should inspire some exciting flavor combinations.

Quick Cubed Dessert

- 1 package (3 oz.) strawberry flavor gelatin
- 1 cup boiling water
- ¾ cup cold water
- 1 envelope whipped topping mix
- 1 can (11 oz.) mandarin orange sections, drained

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; add cold water. Pour into an 8-inch square pan. Chill until firm, about 3 hours. Cut into ½-inch cubes. Prepare whipped topping as directed on package. Layer fruit, whipped topping, and gelatin cubes in dessert glasses, reserving about ½ cup whipped topping for garnish, if desired. Chill. Makes 6 servings.

Prune fruit trees in winter

Pruning is one task that tends to separate the serious tree fruit grower from the fair weather gardener. Why? Because, according to Washtenaw County Horticultural Agent, Bobbi Lawrence, pruning is best done in the dead of winter.

It's not a one-time job, either. Pruning should be done every year. "The aim of winter pruning is to eliminate unneeded branches," she explains. "This permits better light penetration to fruiting areas and better movement of fresh air through the tree. Opening up the tree like this keeps moisture from standing on leaves and fruits, and this is important in reducing the incidence and spread of many fruit tree diseases."

Opening the tree also allows for better penetration of insect and disease control materials.

Remove 10-15 percent of the branches, Lawrence advises. Avoid taking off much more than this. Excessive pruning stimulates the tree to produce lots of new shoots and leaves at the pruning points. In some instances, the tree may spend all its energy producing new vegetation and fail to produce a fruit crop.

Both stone fruits — cherries, peaches, apricots and plums — and pome fruits — apples and pears — should be pruned while they are dormant, that is, while they are not growing. For apples and pears, this means sometime after January and before the buds start to swell. Stone fruits should be pruned in February or March, also before they resume growing.

"In spite of the fact that late summer weather is nicer for working outside, late summer is not the time to prune fruit trees," Lawrence cautions. "This tends to stimulate a flush of late growth that will not have enough time to harden off before cold weather and the whole tree is left more susceptible to winter injury."

The exception to the rule on winter pruning is summer shaping and dwarfing of home fruit trees. A careful trimming of the current year's growth in mid-June to early July reduces a tree's vigor and helps to keep it compact.

"This kind of pruning is comparable to trimming a hedge to shape it," Lawrence says. "It shouldn't be done in late summer, because it could increase the likelihood of winter injury."

Pork cuts can help repair your battered food budget

With holiday decorations tucked away, the new year demands attention. No doubt December's fancy foods and parties dented the budget, a fact which must now be faced. It's time to economize.

Pork offers many penny-saving cuts from which appetizing and nutritious entrees can be made. Cuts from the pork shoulder are less familiar and generally are a thrifty buy.

Blade and arm steaks, cubes, arm picnic and blade Boston roasts and pork cubed steaks will help keep the food budget in line.

Cutting steaks and cubes into strips or pieces and combining them with compatible foods can further stretch your meat dollar, points out Reba Staggs, National Live Stock and Meat Board.

Pork and Tomato Scallop

2 pork blade steaks, cut $\frac{3}{4}$ to 1 inch thick
1 large onion, chopped
1 can (28 ounces) tomatoes
1 tablespoon sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon pepper
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon thyme
8 slices bread, toasted
4 ounces sliced cheese, if desired

Cut pork steaks into strips $\frac{1}{2}$ inch wide and 3 inches long. Cook pork strips and onion slowly in large frying-pan, stirring until lightly browned. Add tomatoes, sugar, salt, pepper and thyme and stir to combine, breaking up tomatoes. Cut slices of toast in 1-inch squares and place in 13 x 9-inch baking dish. Place meat mixture over toast squares, distributing evenly. Cut cheese slices in 1-inch squares and place on top. Cover securely and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 35 minutes. Remove cover and bake 10 minutes longer. 6 servings.

Porky Pie

$1\frac{1}{2}$ pounds pork cubes
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 package (10 ounces) frozen baby lima beans
1 cup boiling water
2 medium carrots, sliced $\frac{1}{4}$ inch thick
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon thyme
1 can (10 $\frac{1}{2}$ ounces) cream of celery soup
Pastry for two-crust pie

Cut pork cubes into $\frac{3}{4}$ to 1-inch pieces. Combine flour, salt and pepper; dredge cubes and brown in lard or drippings in large frying-pan. Pour off drippings. Add lima beans to cubes and pour boiling water over them. Add carrots and thyme. Cover tightly and cook slowly 45 minutes. Stir in cream of celery soup. Divide pastry for a double crust; roll each half into a circle about $\frac{1}{4}$ inch thick. Trim 1 portion to size of top of 9-inch pie pan, slash to allow steam to escape and set aside. Line pie pan with remaining pastry, trimming to 1 inch from rim. Fill pastry-lined pan with pork mixture, cover with slashed pastry circle, fold overhanging pastry over top crust and crimp edge. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 35 to 40 minutes or until crust is lightly browned. Let stand 10 minutes before serving. 6 servings.

Wedding bells to chime

MILLER-BIRDWELL

Lisa Elaine Miller of Wayne and Randy Birdwell of Romulus are engaged and making plans for a summer wedding.

Their engagement and nuptial date are announced by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miller of 4139 Eastlawn, Wayne. The bride-to-be, a 1977 alumna of Wayne Memorial High School, is employed by Circle Airfreight Corp. in Romulus.

The prospective bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Birdwell of 6861 Merriman Road, Romulus, is a 1976 graduate of Romulus High School now employed at Hydra-Matic Division of General Motors at Willow Run.

The couple will exchange vows on Aug. 26.

Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark of 8200 Hannan Rd., Wayne.

He graduated from Belleville High School in 1974 and now works for Hydra-Matic Division of General Motors at Willow Run.

CLAY-PERKINS

An early spring wedding is being planned by Renee Marie Clay of 10621 Mt. Vernon, Taylor Woods Apartments in Taylor, and Mark Anthony Perkins of Allen Park. St. Francis Cabrini Church in Allen Park has been reserved for their April 1 altar date.

The bride-elect is a Belleville

High School graduate who plans to attend nursing school next September. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Miller of 221 Second St., Belleville, and Harold Clay of Wyandotte. At the present time she is employed at the Baptist Park Nursing Home in Taylor.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Perkins of 9868 Hubert, Allen Park, the prospective bridegroom graduated from Allen Park High School and is now attending Henry Ford Community College. He is affiliated with the family business, Taylor Ambulance, Inc. of Taylor.

Western Wayne 'Y' has annual meeting

The YWCA of Western Wayne County will present its Annual Meeting on Jan. 27 at 6:30 p.m. at Ford World Headquarters in Dearborn.

The guest speaker for the evening will be Dr. Bernadine Denning, director of the Office of Revenue Sharing in Washington D.C. Dr. Denning is a native Detroit and was a member of the Detroit YWCA and a graduate of Wayne State University. She is presently vice president at large of the National YWCA. Her topic for the evening will be "Revenue sharing in relation to human services concerns". There will also be a special awards presentation honoring the Y-Teen of the year, the woman of the year, and 5-year volunteers who will receive an honorary pin. Dinner tickets are $10 per person and may be purchased through the YWCA by calling 561-4110.

Prepared childbirth class set for Feb. 6

New classes in prepared childbirth will begin Feb. 6 and continue for the next six weeks in the Belleville area. Kristina Lee Dawson, childbirth instructor and ICEA member, will teach the session.

Classes, which are usually started about the sixth month of pregnancy, may be taken as a couple or individually and a coach will be provided. Condensed classes are also available for mothers further along in pregnancy.

Information covered during the six weeks includes what to do about the discomforts of pregnancy; LaMaze techniques; nutrition; various comfort measures involving exercise and massage, and films on childbirth methods.

Registration should be made no later than one week in advance. To register and for further information, please call 697-1774 or 699-9824.

Garden club learns about house plants

The Huron Valley Garden Club held its regular meeting Jan. 9 at the home of Mrs. Barbara Holman on Harmony Lane. A short business session preceded the program on house plants presented by one of the members, Caroline Larson, who is the owner of The Plant Zoo on Main Street in Belleville.

Her talk covered the care and growing of house plants. She also gave individual advice to members who were having problems with their own house plants.

She also told which varieties are best for light and low-light spots in the home and also told how to start new plants from a parent plant already in the home.

Portable Players to offer prime rib and prime drama

Prime rib and prime drama will become a permanent fixture on the Eastern Michigan University campus, if Ken Stevens and his company, the Portable Players, get their way.

Beginning Feb. 3, the company will present The Prime & Players, a new dinner theatre at Eastern. And along with their opening production of the musical "Anatol," a complete gourmet spread will be offered in the intimate setting of the Hoyt Conference Dining Center.

Directed by Ken Stevens, "Anatol" is based on the stories of Arthur Schnitzler and is surrounded by the music of Offenbach. "Anatol" is the story of a frivolous and melancholy hero with a passion for falling in and out of love. Offenbach's music was adapted for this romantic comedy by Tom Jones of "Fantastics" fame and Nancy Ford, who wrote the music for "The Last Sweet Days of Isaac."

In addition to seeing a play performed by Eastern's resident company of graduate dramatists, theatregoers will be treated to a gourmet meal, featuring such delicacies as Quiche Lorraine, mixed green salad, prime ribs of beef au jus, Rock Cornish game hen, Macedoine of Vegetable, Potatoes Duchesse, parfaits, rolls and butter and beverage. The dinner is served by waiters and waitresses; fine wines will be available and a bar service will be offered.

"Anatol" will be presented every Friday, Saturday and Sunday from Feb. 3 to Feb. 26. Dinner is served at 6 p.m.; curtain time is 8 p.m. Admission is $10.95 on Friday and Sunday and $11.95 on Saturday.

Ample free parking is available adjacent to the Hoyt Conference Center complex, located just off Huron River Drive on the north side of the main campus. Admission is by reservation only. For more information or reservations, call 487-1221 or write The Prime & Players, Speech and Dramatic Arts, Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti 48197.

The Prime & Players dinner theatre is co-sponsored by the EMU Speech and Dramatic Arts Department and the Division of Student Affairs.

'Bridegroom' opens at MH

The story is told with a country flavor and a city sophistication. The music is foot-stompin' and the homespun characters are (almost) right out of history. The show is "The Robber Bridegroom," Broadway's country musical hit which received rave reviews in New York and won a Tony Award for its star, Barry Bostwick.

"The Robber Bridegroom" arrives at Music Hall Center with a whoop and a holler for three evening performances on Feb. 2, 3 and 4, at 8:30 p.m. and a matinee on Feb. 4 at 2 p.m.

"The Robber Bridegroom" is a Robin Hood-type story of a rascal highwayman, his country cohorts and a fair damsel, set against the backwoods frontier of Mississippi circa 1800. Mistaken identities, good-natured humor and innocent romance make this a show the entire family can enjoy.

This highbrow-hoedown show is based upon the novella by the well-known southern writer Eudora Welty, with book and lyrics by Alfred Uhry. The show's 13 production numbers feature the original music of Robert Waldman and choreography of Dennis Grimaldi. An on-stage blue grass band sets everyone's feet tapping.

The New York Daily News said of the show: "A lively and sassy country musical," and The New York Post called it "charming and fresh entertainment."

GEORGE DELOY

"The Robber Bridegroom" stars George Deloy as the roguish bandit, Jamie Lockhart, and Barbara Marineau (a native Michigander) as the innocent object of his affections. Deloy was Barry Bostwick's understudy in the Broadway production and Miss Marineau made her Broadway debut last season in a starring role in "Shenandoah."

Tickets for this lively evening's entertainment can be purchased by calling the Music Hall box office between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and 12 noon to 6 p.m. on Saturdays. The box office window is open 12 noon to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The Music Hall is located at 350 Madison Avenue.

'Turnabout' aims at women

"Turnabout," an upbeat, multi-faceted magazine-format show for women, will be seen on Channel 56 at 2:30 p.m., Monday, starting Feb. 6. The program also is shown with captions for the hearing impaired at 5:30 p.m. Saturdays.

"Turnabout" will mix interviews, on-the-spot filmed and taped reports, practical advice, book reviews and other segments of interest, all focusing on women and the men in their lives as they face the challenges of today's changing world.

During the show's 26-week run, programs will explore the problems of living with stress, how women juggle different parts of their lives, economics and finance, health and safety, nutrition and dieting, women in science, religion and arts, women as factory workers, mothers, business executives and much more.

Celebrities and other women whose lives are of great interest both women who work and those who stay at home — will be featured as guests. Beverly Sills, Billie Jean King, Shirley Temple Black, Nancy Wilson and anthropologist Laura

Wayne upsets Taylor Truman in 2 OTs

From the obscure depths of the Great Lakes 8 Conference basketball world, Wayne Memorial rose to the top and dragged down previously undefeated Taylor Truman in a double overtime thriller.

Wayne jarred Truman 45-42 using a mosaic of defenses that kept the league-leading Truman quintet off balance most of the night.

Chuck Henry, in his first year as Wayne's head coach, labelled the superlative performance by his team as "his greatest victory."

"This was something the kids looked forward to since we lost the opener to them," said Henry said. "Several of our players took it upon themselves as a personal challenge to show just what they can do on the floor."

Wayne maneuvered exquiste in the second extra period to put Truman out of its misery. Harassed and humbled by league and area rivals before the new year, Wayne meted out the punishment Friday night on Truman's home grounds.

the first period. In fact, at the end of the regulation game, the lanky pivotman had only six points.

It was L.W. Matthews and Richard Carroll who took control of the game for Wayne and away from Truman. Matthews tossed in seven of his 13 points in the extra periods while Carroll had five.

From the offset, it was a "weird" "untypical" game. Neither team could find the basket and missed on close and easy shots. Truman gained a 11-7 lead after the first eight minutes and the four points stayed there at halftime as both teams put 13 points on the scoreboard in the second period.

Truman went into the third period with a 24-20 lead, but yielded the cushion to Wayne who, would you believe, outscored their hosts 8-4 in the next eight minutes.

"It was a strange period," said Henry. "We were going for the percentage shots but couldn't make them and they also missed miserably."

Down by four points with less than a minute to go, Wayne's Darnell Morris got the final two baskets — the last one at the buzzer from 30-feet out — to deadlock the score in regulation time at 30-all.

The two teams tallied five points for their efforts in the first three minutes as Matthews accounted for two baskets and Mitchell came through with a pair of clutch free throws.

It was Matthews' two free throws with 17 seconds left that broke the deadlock in the second overtime. Wayne stole the inbound pass, but called for hacking and Mitchell again went to the line and made it a 39-all ball game. Carroll's basket broke the knot, giving the Zebras a 41-39 edge and a technical against Mitchell enabled Carroll to go to the line again and sink a free throw (42-39). Mitchell made one of two free throws and Kyle Poteau sealed the decision for Wayne when he sank both ends of a one-and-one with three seconds to go.

Bob Boertje, a 6-0 senior, had the responsibility of checking Mitchell when Morris fouled out and Boertje got the job done.

Truman, bolstered with the return of Mark Polenz, a 6-5 cager who had transferred to Lincoln Park, had a natural warehouse of height that consisted of a front line of 6-5, 6-6 and 6-10 which the mite Wayneites had to contend with.

In the midst of the giants, Boertje managed to nail 15 rebounds, but the offensive story belonged to Matthew who picked up 15 points, cashing in on eight of 13 from the line. Carroll added 10.

The loss didn't effect Truman's first place status. The league leaders, with a 6-1 record, remain in first but must now share it with Lincoln Park. Fordson, a team that will host Wayne Friday night, is next best with a 6-2 mark while Wayne comes next with a 4-3 record.

Earlier in the week Wayne was scalped by Ypsilanti's Braves 81-49. Ypsilanti raced to a 39-21 halftime lead and never looked back. Morris had 18 and Carroll 12 in that lopsided game.

A tribute to Romulus' Ed Baum

For nearly a quarter of a century Ed Baum has served Romulus and Romulus High School as a teacher, coach and athletic director.

Now, plagued with failing health, Baum has decided to step down as athletic director at the high school.

And many of his friends and colleagues want him to know that they have not forgotten and will remember the excellent work and tradition Baum has built during the past couple of decades.

ED BAUM

"We're planning an 'Ed Baum Night' ", announced Jesse Meriweather, former head basketball coach who is an assistant principal at the high school. "In appreciation for what this man has done for literally thousands of people who have come in contact with him, we'd like to honor him on that night."

Meriweather said that during the halftime of the Alpena and Romulus basketball game scheduled for Friday, Feb. 3, school, city, county and state officials will be on hand to pay tribute to Baum.

"And we'd like to get as many of his former students here as well," Meriweather stressed.

Though Baum is ending his athletic directorship, he will continue his administrative duties at South Junior High.

"We hope that in this small way we can tell Ed how much we appreciated him," Meriweather added.

'The Bird' on the wing again

A year ago the young Detroit Tiger pitching sensation, Mark "The Bird" Fidrych pulled a switch on area fans. He promised to play basketball against a Romulus faculty cage team to help raise money for the high school's baseball program.

"The Bird" was a no show and a lot of people cried, "Foul Play", and demanded their money back.

Now, according to Fred Coleman, who heads and organizes fund drives at the high school, "The Bird" is ready to make amends — he says he'll be at Romulus when the Tigers invade the Eagles' nest on January 27.

That's Friday night. "I know that there was a mix-up last year whether Fidrych was going to be here or not," said Coleman. "This year he has said he will definitely be in Romulus."

"And, it looks like we're in for another good basketball game, after all they beat us by only eight points last year," Coleman added.

The Bird's teammates will include Dave Rozema, Bob Sykes, Vern Ruhle, Mikey Stanley, Ron LeFlore and Jack Morris. The game will begin at 7:30 p.m. and the admission price is $3.

A benefit hockey game

One of the events programmed in conjunction with the Wayne Winter Festival is a "hockey game" that everyone can take part in, in one form or another.

Though the icers will be the Wayne Jaycees vs. the Westland Jaycees, the proceeds of the game will be donated to fight a child hood disease called the Reye's Syndrome which they tell me affects the brain.

I'm also told that the "icers" won't be wearing the usual ice skated in this hockey game, but shoes, "Hey, because most of us guys can't skate," a spokesman for the Jaycees said.

Anyway, the game will be played on January 28th from 5:30 p.m. until 6:30 p.m. at the Wayne Community Center. There is no admission price, but a cannister will be passed among the fans during the "break in the action."

The game is also being billed as a "grudge match".

You'll have to see it to believe it.

Leverenz strikes gold at DCC mat tourney

Leverenz, a 191-pound athlete, displayed his mat expertise before a pantheon of outstanding grapplers and coaches and won a major decision over Bay City Western's Bill Rugenstein 12-4 to emerge atop of the field in his weight class.

Leverenz was the only local wrestler to strike gold at DCC.

However, Chris's teammate, Corry Bachus came close. Bachus, a 132-pound senior, showed he is capable of state accolades as he finished second to Lansing Eastern's Gary Crump.

Bachus's notable opponent in the final is a defending Class A state champ and the two may just be rematched for the state title in that weight later in the season.

Corry's twin brother, Chris, garnered a third place, at 138, while Wayne had a pair of fourths in Dave Shell(98), and Bo Wanshon(112). Mike Lazarz (145) and Jeff Bovia(165) were fifth and Mitch Dart was sixth at 178.

Westland John Glenn had five medalists with third placers, Bill Meyer (155) and heavyweight Jerome Robinson leading the way. Tim O'Neill was fourth (105), Greg Potulski(191) and Mike Collin(145) was sixth respectively for the Westlanders.

Overshadowed by the local performances was the over-all team effort by Temperance Bedford, the two-time defending Class A champ dominated the tournament.

Temperance amassed 153½ points to beat out a field of 16 competing schools. Wayne settled for fifth place among the powerhouses, while Glenn was tied for ninth with arch-rival, Thurston.

The outstanding wrestler's award went to DCC's senior grappler, Nemir Nadhir, who earned a gold at 155, while the most falls award was claimed by Fred Worthem of Mt. Clemens. Worthem chalked up four falls in a total elapsed time of 7:55.

Wayne Coach John Wood was satisfied with his team's performance at the tournament.

"After comparing some of our opponents' records during the seeding meeting," Wood noted, "I had serious misgivings about a real strong finish with Mark Flores and Jim Fairchild out with the flu and Dave Lusk injured."

"But the guys came on strong and we finished higher than I thought we would under the circumstances."

Detroit Catholic Central Wrestling Invitational Team results

1. Temperance Bedford (153½); 2. Hazel Park (125); 3. (tied) Bay City Western and Lansing Eastern (123½); 5. Wayne Memorial (114); 6. Flint Northwestern (103); 7. Mt. Clemens (89); 8. Detroit Catholic Central (83); 9. (tied) John

WW swim tourney dates set

During his eight years as head swim coach at Belleville High School, Sam Vicchy has never beaten Dearborn High, a perennial Class A state swim power and the only champ the Suburban 8 Conference has ever known.

Vicchy feels that when the two teams meet Thursday night in Belleville waters, the Tigers have a chance this year to end Dearborn's superiority over them.

"It's going to be a tough one," said the gregarious Belleville coach after the Tigers disposed of Edsel Ford, another power, 92-80. "I feel they have a freckle more, a hair more than we do this time."

And it's come down to that. In previous campaigns, Vicchy and his finmen didn't dare dream the impossible that is to defeat Dearborn. Now they feel it is in the realm of reality.

The confrontation will take place on Thursday beginning at 7 p.m.

Meanwhile, the stage has been set for the 16th annual Western Wayne Invitational which will be conducted at Westland John Glenn on Friday and Saturday, Feb. 10 and 11.

Belleville, which has won more WW titles than any other team, is again favored to retain the championship. The Tigers however will not be able to runaway with the crown as solid teams representing Cherry Hill, Wayne Memorial and Franklin should bein the thick of the battle.

Other schools that will be fielding teams are Garden City East, Garden City West, Livonia Bentley, Livonia Stevenson, Plymouth Canton, Redford Thurston, Robichaud and Willow Run.

The Belleville victory over Edsel Ford was also a first: It was the first time that Vicchy's Tigers had beaten the T-Birds in dual meet competition.

"We swam well against them," Vicchy said. "I was really pleased."

Though Belleville was edged 6-5 in first places, the Tigers have enough depth to win their second consecutive and 10th over-all dual meet decision of the year. Howard Renton gave the Tigers a first in the 200-yard freestyle (1:50.3), while Dana Thorpe was the best diver with 277.55 points, edging two Edsel competitors, and Terry Caves provided the winners with a victory in the 100-yard backstroke(1:02.3). Belleville won the 100-yard breaststroke with Scott Hennells (1:07.2).

Carr to coach at Illinois

Ex-Glenn mentor to leave EMU

Lloyd Carr is on the move again. The dynamic football coach who led Westland John Glenn to the Northwest Suburban Conference football championship in 1975 has accepted an assistant coaching job with Illinois.

Carr, who grew up in the downriver community of Riverview where he was an all-state quarterback, has been an assistant coach for the last two years at Eastern Michigan University.

"This will give me an opportunity that I have always wanted, namely, to coach in the Big 10 Conference," said Carr, who is 33-years-old. "I'm excited about the new challenge and can't wait to get started."

Carr helped forge John Glenn into a state powerhouse and in his final year he guided the Rockets to a 9-1 won-lost season. The team he left behind had a perfect 9-0 season the following year. It was the first undefeated football team in the Westland high school's history.

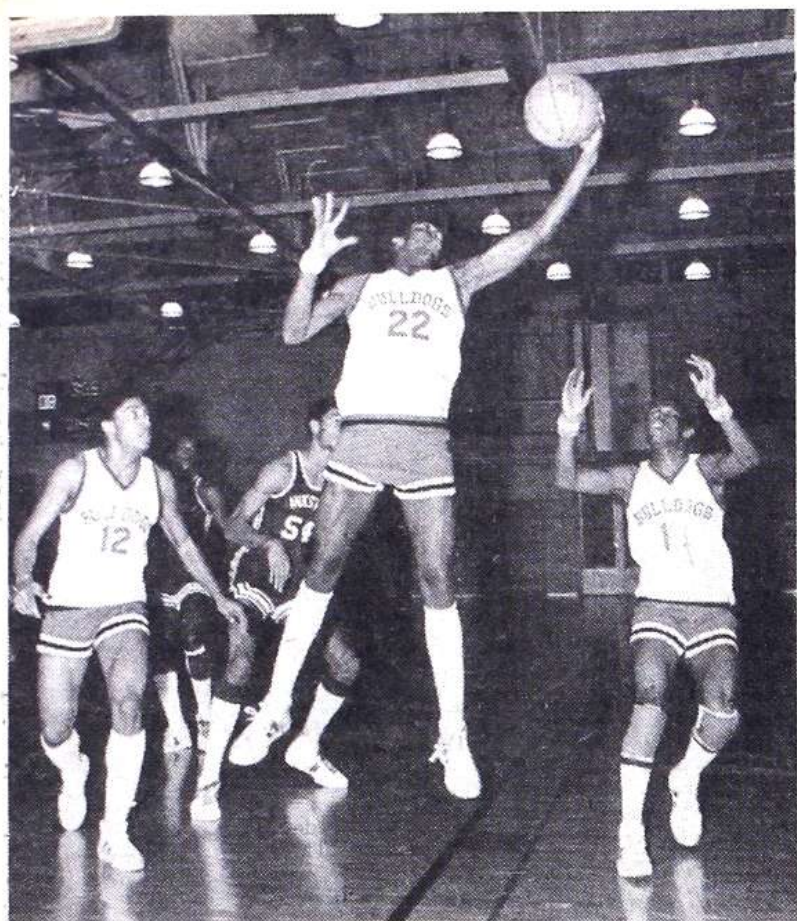

Lloyd played his collegiate football at the University of Missouri and later signed as a free agent with the Green Bay Packers.

When his professional career ended with an injury, Carr accepted an assistant coaching job at Belleville High School and after two years moved over to John Glennas head coach. In 1976 he left the high school ranks to help head Coach Ed Chlebek teams at Eastern Michigan University.

"I know I will miss the area tremendously," said Carr. "As many of the people know when we (EMU) didn't have a game, I usually attended a high school game seeking talent. I feel this area has among the best prep talent around."

Victory format

Taking the boards away from the opponents is one way to assure yourself of a victory. And that's what Robichaud did Friday night against visiting Inkster - dominate the boards in the second half as evidenced by the effort Terrance

Ross (22) is putting in above. Flanked by teammates Mark Woodson (12) and Melvin Ballard (10), Ross picks off this rebound that helped pave the way to a 75-71 victory and avenge an earlier loss to the Vikings.

Tigers even score with Dearborn

Belleville evened a score with Dearborn Friday night, but let the league kingpin, Livonia Bentley, escape from its mitts earlier in the week.

Dearborn, which had turned back Coach Tom Niemi's Tigers in their first Suburban 8 encounter of the season, devoured a 69-63 pastings at the hands of the hosts.

The victory kept Belleville in pace with Plymouth Salem and Redford Union who are all jammed in second place with 4-2 records. Bentley has a 6-0 conference mark.

In a turnover-marred game, Belleville maintained a slim lead most of the first half. The Tigers edged their way to a 12-8 first period and remained out in front at half-time, 37-33.

But Rob Laney then tossed in eight points to stake Belleville to a 19-6 third period which gave the hosts a 52-39 wedge for three periods.

Dearborn made it look close thanks to Paul Kendrick's 12 points in the fourth period, giving the Pioneers a 24-13 edge for the last eight minutes.

Belleville committed 22 turnovers, four less than their visitors who connected on 15 of 28 at the free throw line. On the boards, thanks to Chris Koger's efforts the Tigers had the edge in rebounding 32-21. Koger had 12 of those.

Herb Burrus paced a balanced Belleville scoring attack with 20 points and Kelvin Patterson contributed 17 while Koger and Laney finished with 13 and 12 points, respectively.

Kendrick's 22 points topped the field. Teammate Pat Rombach had 19.

After trailing all of the first half, Belleville got its fast-break game going in the third period against Bentley and erased a 34-25 halftime deficit to go ahead 42-38 heading into the final period.

1st SAC victory

Robichaud hangs on to beat Inkster, 75-71

Inkster threw a scare into Robichaud but the Dearborn Heights cagers handled the pressure this time and broke a four-game Suburban Athletic Conference basketball losing streak Friday night at the expense of their arch-rivals.

Clutch baskets by Ivy Harper and Terry Ross in the fourth period enabled Robichaud to pad their lead by as much as 12 points before the surging Inkster Vikings made a comeback and nearly caught the Bulldogs at the wire again.

However, this time Robichaud claimed the victory, 75-71. In their first confrontation of the season, Inkster won with an at-the-final buzzer shot.

"I felt we should have won the first game, too," said Robichaud Coach Francis McCauley. "This time though we finally cut down on our turnovers and we got some excellent clutch shooting in the last period."

Inkster was harassed by Robichaud's fast-breaking guards who sparked their team to a 19-15 first period lead. The Vikings came back and scored their hosts 17-15 and trailed 34-32 at the halftime.

The margin didn't change after the next eight minutes either as both teams put 16 points on the scoreboard in the third period but the Bulldogs built up a 13 point edge in the middle of the fourth period and coasted to the win.

Wallace Taylor and Vincent Parker split 36 of Inkster's points between themselves and teammate Al Dukes tossed in 15 for the Vikings who canned 13 of 25 free throws.

Harper led a balanced Robichaud scoring attack which included Melvin Ballard's 15 points, Al Carter's 12 and Mark Woodson's 10.

Robichaud gets River Rouge and Coach Lofton Green on the rebound of their first loss of the season. The perennial Class B state title contenders, who have already beaten the Bulldogs twice, will host the Dearborn Heights cagers on Friday.

Romulus cagers win in OT

A Hollywood scriptwriter couldn't have come up with a better ending for Coach Ron Hanna and Romulus High's cagers Friday night.

Sophomore Darryl Lewis was cast in the role of the hero and ended an overtime drama at Dearborn Heights Crestwood by pumping in a 12-foot jump shot with 18 seconds remaining to give Romulus a 67-65 victory over the Chargers.

Lewis, who scored a game high 18 points, sank six of the eight Romulus points in the extra period.

"We got off to a cold start against them and didn't begin to really catch fire until late in the second period," Hanna explained. "In the third period we switched to a full-court press zone defense and it appeared to bother them."

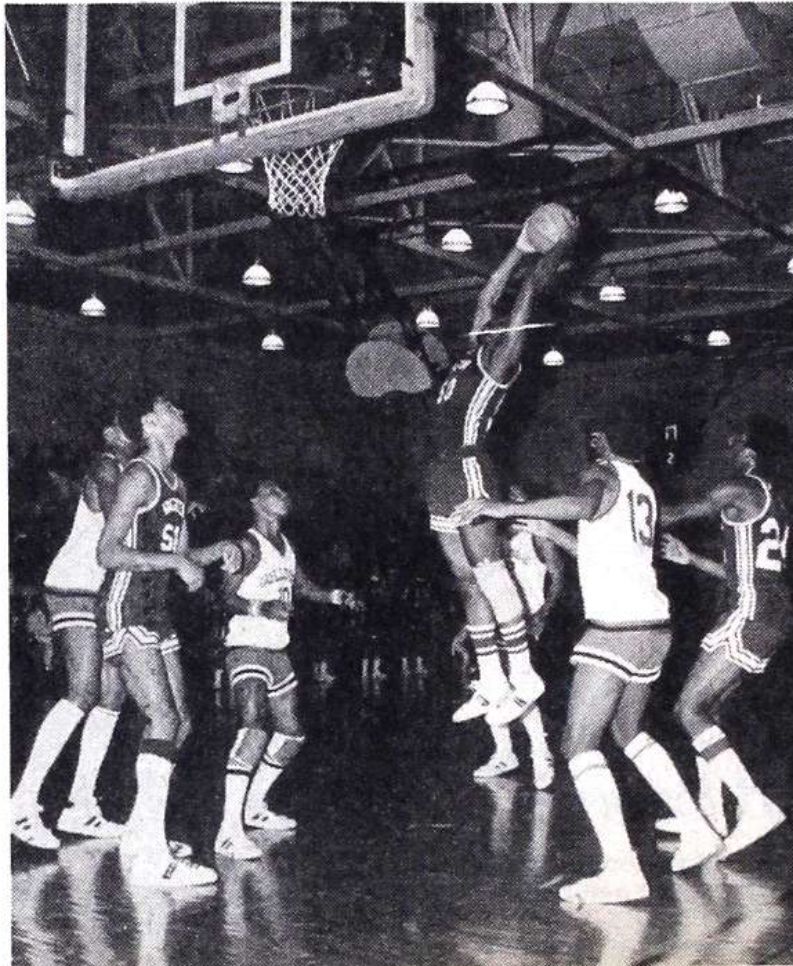

Crestwood moved out in front 18-10 after the first eight minutes, but the fired-up Eagles came back as guard Mike Johnson tossed in six points and Lewis got four to help close the gap to 27-26 at the intermission.

Romulus outscored Crestwood 23-16 in the third period as Lewis again contributed the bulk of the points, getting eight more. But the host rallied behind Steve Popp and Craig Bonza and tied the game up at 56-all, forcing the issue into overtime.

Lewis led a balanced attack which included four other Romulus cagers in double figures. Vince Bean collected 13, while Herb Buckley and Johnson split 24 between them.

Earlier in the week, third-ranked Class B power, Flint Beecher cut

Head & shoulder above all

Outstretched arms and all, Inkster's Keith Byck (50) sweeps the board for this rebound during Friday night's rematch with natural rival, Robichaud. Byck and the Vikings who edged the hosts at the buzzer earlier in the season couldn't handle Robichaud's balanced attack this time, though, and dropped a 75-71 decision to Coach Francis McCauley's Bulldogs. It was the first conference victory of the season for the Dearborn Heights cagers who travel to River Rouge Friday night.

Northwest Suburban title hopefuls clash

Coach Larry Teahan doesn't duck issues.

Asked how important Thursday's meet with North Farmington is, the Livonia Franklin swim coach replied: "The winner will probably be the favorite to win the league championship."

So the proverbial lines are drawn. North visits Franklin on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in what could be the showdown for the next Northwest Suburban Conference title.

Meanwhile, Franklin came up short, 98-74, in a nonleague warm-up with West Bloomfield last week. Despite the edge in first places (6-5), the Patriots didn't have the depth to stop Bloomfield.

Mike Balvanes accounted for two of the Franklin six victories as he plowed his way to a 22.9 in the 50-yard freestyle and a 50.5 for the 100-yard individual medley (2:11.5), while Mark Brenner (1:05.1) and John Klein (1:06.3) placed 1-2 for the 100-yard backstroke.

Sellers and Dave Pederson also finished first and second respectively in the breaststroke. Sellers' winning time was 1:06.5.

Franklin had the best 400-yard freestyle team in the meet with Tim Weber, Dave Luis, Brian Nemeth and Balvanes who combined on a 3:33.5.

Cherry Hill zeroing in on cage title

Like piranhas closing in on a meaty prey, Cherry Hill natural instincts indicate that the Tri-River Conference basketball title is within reach.

Coach Dick McNally's Spartans put on a show for Schafer and got some unexpected help from lowly Garden City West in the form of a victory over would-be title challenger Melvindale to go up by two games last week.

Cherry Hill crushed Schafer 84-59 for its sixth consecutive conference victory and its 11th victory in 12 starts this season. The rest of the conference field has at least two losses which means that the Spartans would have to lose at least three to jeopardize their title ambitions.

"We're playing the kind of offensive ball that I have visualized that we can play," McNally said after the Schafer rout. "Though we shot a little better than 50 percent, we had nearly a 30 point edge going into the fourth period so I let everyone get some time in."

Cherry Hill faces Melvindale Friday night and the Cardinals are coming off of a physical game with Garden City West. At the closing minutes of that game a brawl broke out between the players and the bench. It took nearly 20 minutes to disperse the players. No one was reported injured.

The Spartans wasted little time with Schafer as they jumped in front 23-14 in the first period, built up a 46-23 halftime lead before going on to an overwhelming 66-34 advantage for three periods.

"We threw as half-court press at them and they really had problems with it," McNally said.

Tyrone Jordan, who played a little more than a half for the Spartans, tossed in 23 points and accounted for 13 rebounds and set the pace. Playmakers Don Calloway and Tim Corden chipped in 17 and eight points, respectively, while center Floyd Simmons, who handled the boards, contributed nine points.

Joe Walsh had 19 and Dave Wilkins 17 for the losers.

Calloway displayed pinpoint passing and came up with seven steals to fire up the Spartans. He was credited with 14 assists. The 5-10 sparkplug has given the Spartans an added dimension to their game.

George Johnson, Simmons and Jordan gave the Spartans the boards at both ends of the court. Jordan counted 13 rebounds, Johnson had 11 and Simmons 10 for the evening.

Ice safety

By SAM GRISSOM
Outdoor Writer

Each year we read or hear about someone having to be rescued from an ice floe that has broken off and allowed the victims to float out into open water.

In most cases these incidents could have been avoided if the fishermen involved had not allowed their overzealous pursuit of fish cloud their judgment.

Fishing anywhere near open water can pose a potential threat to your safety.

Ice is constantly expanding and contracting. Even in freezing weather, ice can become rotten. The wind can force surface water under the ice shelf; and this movement of water can soon undermine vast quantities of ice for considerable distances from the open water. Then when the ice moves, large sections can break off and float away.

An additional danger is that these floes are often top heavy. Once they become free from the main body of ice they will often tip or roll.

I have seen sections of ice as wide as twenty-five feet roll completely over, and the force and quickness with which they can move is unbelievable.

River mouths pose another danger area, as do any sources of moving water such as springs and melting snow runoff areas.

Ice fishing can be completely safe sport as long as you exercise a little caution and common sense when going out on the ice. The amount of ice necessary for safety is as follows:

Ice Safety Thicknesses (in inches)

- 1" UNSAFE
- 2" One person
- 3" Group widely spread out

- 4" General foot traffic
- 5" Snowmobiles spread out
- 10" Cars under 2 ton GVW
- 12" Light truck, several snowmobiles
- 15" Medium truck (2½ ton)
- 20" Heavy truck (8 ton)

I would never dream of taking my truck out on the ice regardless of the thickness. Many people do, but I once saw a car on South Lake where only the bumper was protruding through the ice. I guess the thought of being in a similar predicament scares me. Most insurance policies are void the moment you venture out on the ice with your car; and I'm sure that the cost of having it towed out would be astronomical.

The purpose of this column is not to scare you and keep you from going fishing; it's merely meant to advise you as to what could happen if you don't act with discretion.

If you are going after bluegills you want to remember that the lighter your line and the smaller your bait the better your chances are. Bait that lies dead in the water is not going to get any hits. You should jig periodically. When jigging for bluegills you need not employ the same arm tiring motion that you use for walleyes or lake trout.

Just a slight vibration sometimes is all that is necessary. You can raise and lower your rod tip slightly or shake it slowly from side-to-side. Just the wind can often be enough to keep it moving. Bluegills are notorious for being light hitters in winter.

Watch for the slightest indication that your lure is moving and lift.

Well, I'm going to quit writing for this week so that I can do some fishing. So get out there yourself and have a ball.

On the mats

League titles are up for grabs

With the dual meet season left in their wake, the high school wrestling teams in the area will begin competing for league championships this week.

And while Wayne Memorial stays at home to await members of the Great Lakes 8 Conference, Glenn and Belleville will place their crowns on foreign territory.

Westland John Glenn, which has won more Northwest Suburban Conference championships in wrestling than any of the other league affiliates, will head for the unfriendly confines of Redford Township Thurston. Thurston has designed on the Glenn title.

Belleville, the undisputed ruler of the Suburban 8 Conference mats, must defend its title at Livonia Bentley.

All three teams enter Saturday's conference championships with perfect league records.

Wayne made it 6-0 by plastering Wyandotte 39-29, but Coach John Wood's minions discovered that Temperance Bedford remains the kinglypin on the mats.

Bedford and Wayne clashed last Tuesday and the visitors emerged with a 31-24 victory over Coach Wood's contingent. Bedford has owned the Class A state title for the past two years and is presently ranked as the No. 1 power in the state which means they'll be the ones to beat at the state tournament in Kalamazoo next month.

Wayne surprises Spartans

Putting to good use its dexterity and depth, Wayne Memorial devoured Cherry Hill 106-66 to stay undefeated in dual meet swim competition this year.

Backed by two-record setting performances by Harold Sleicher, Coach Jim McPartlin's Zebras claimed seven of the 11 events en route to their seventh victory of the season.

"The kids swam well," said McPartlin who'll send his team up against Fordson Thursday night in a key Great Lakes 8 Conference battle. "The boys are peaking at the right time and, of course, Sleicher is looking very good."

Sleicher turned in a 2:12.8 in winning the 200-yard individual medley and leading teammate Karl Staber to the wire in that event. Sleicher later returned to the pool and rewrote the record in the 100-yard backstroke, covering the event in 60.4 and nipping Spartan Scott Lillie at the finish by one-tenth of a second.

Cherry Hill received its usually superb performance from all-stater

Wayne chalked up nine of the 11 first places.

"I don't like to look ahead," offered McPartlin, "but I feel that our meet with Monroe is going to be a cliffhanger. They're the ones who are looking to take our title away from us."

and the victory with a super effort by its 400-yard freestyle relay team made up of Joe Thomas, Mike Sherwood, Chris Liedel and Howard Renton who posted a 3:34.0.

In other Suburban 8 Conference meets, Plymouth Salem came up with a 1-2 in the freestyle relay to salvage a rare tie with Livonia Bentley, 86-all.

"It was the first time that I have ever been involved in a dual meet which resulted in a 'dead heat'," commented Salem's Chuck Olson. "I thought we swam well against them."

The tie left the Rocks with a 0-1-1 won-tied conference record. Salem garnered five first places, two from Mike Etienne who turned in a 1:55.0 in winning the 200-yard freestyle, and had a 52.0 for his victory in the 50-yard freestyle.

Craig Finley provided the meet's biggest upset when he raced Chuck Winter to the wire and won the 200-yard individual medley in 2:07.3.

"I told Craig that we needed the event and he went out there and won," the Salem coach pointed out.

Ouch Franklin is GC East's 1st victim

Jim McIntyre's first trip to Garden City East as Livonia Franklin's head coach wasn't exactly one he'd like to remember.

McIntyre's troops were trampled by the previously winless East, 71-60, and the loss dipped the Livonians' Northwest Suburban Conference record to 2-3 on the year. It was East's first conference victory and that snapped an incredible 10-game losing streak, the longest in the school's recent years.

"The only thin I can say," commented McIntyre who is in his first year as head coach, "is that East came to play and we didn't. But, in defense of my kids, there were a lot of questionable calls, in fact, I sincerely feel that the officials took the game completely away from the kids. I had four starters foul out and one who lasted with four personals. And, also they made 25 points at the free throw line, so the game was actually decided there."

Franklin got off to a cold start and played catch-up all of the night. Trailing 14-8 after eight minutes, the Patriots headed into the dressing rooms at halftime with a 36-26 deficit. Though they challenged occasionally throughout the second half, they couldn't cut East's lead by more than five points.

Three Franklin players reached the double figure scoring column with Jim Wilson's 18 as high for the evening. Chris Baker added 16 and Ray Singer tossed in 12.

East's attack, which included five in double figures, was led by Tim Taylor who pumped in 17 points. Jim Dziekan counted 14 while Joe Emery sank 13. Steve Topalian had 12 and Rick Roy chipped in with 10.

East did have the edge at the foul line where it capitalized on 25 of 45 opportunities as compared to Franklin's six of 14 effort.

Earlier in the week the Livonians turned back Farmington 69-61 as Baker scored a career high 28 points and accounted for 24 rebounds, also a career high. Zannis bagged 19 points for the winners.

Never in doubt after racing ahead 19-13 and 39-25 at the end of the first two periods, McIntyre had an opportunity to go to his bench early in this nonleague.

Franklin will resume conference competition Franklin when the Patriots return home to host Thurston. They met slumping city rival, Churchill, Tuesday night.

Huron rips Islanders

"We looked like world beaters," said Coach Gene Smith after New Boston Huron buried Grosse Ile 72-53 for its fourth conference basketball victory in seven starts. "Everything fell into place, especially in that third period."

Huron swarmed all over the Islanders in that period as their fast break worked and their defense forced turnovers which paved the way for several uncontested layups.

Gene Reitz, as skillful as an acupuncturist needing a patient, swept past the inept Grosse Ile defense and rattled the nets for a career high 27 points to lead the winners. Before the night was over, Reitz had amassed 10 field goals and made seven of 10 from the free throw line for a game high 27. And he accomplished the feat despite early foul trouble.

"Reitz played a superb game," noted Coach Smith. "In fact, it was an outstanding game."

With only four points to spar, the Chiefs took a 20-16 lead at the end of the first period and couldn't shake the Islanders who stayed in contention at the half.

Up 35-29 at the half, Huron broke it open by outscoring their rivals 23-12 in the third period.

"We were doing things right out there," Smith pointed out.

Reitz has come on faster than Seattle Sew in the stretch since the Christmas Holidays. The 5-10 senior guard has now piled up 20 or more points in his last four games. He has also contributed a handful of assists.

But it wasn't a one-man show, though it may sound so against Grosse Ile. Jay Richert moved in and replaced Reitz early in the game when the sharpshooter got into foul trouble and Knight scored 13 for the winners.

The Chiefs have two tough assignments with the middle of the pack this week. They took on Monroe Jefferson Tuesday and return home Friday to host a 5-3 Carlson team.

"We'll find out this week which of us is the best," Smith said.

Wayne, Glenn wrestlers among state's best

As expected, undefeated Temperance Bedford, the defending Class A state wrestling champs the past two years, is ranked as the "team to beat" in the state this year.

DALE WOOLFORD

Woolford beats champ

Sixteen-year-old Dale Woolford is a 165 average brawler and when the young athlete received an opportunity to "Beat the Champ," he didn't miss it.

Given a 40-pin handicap, Woolford fired a 180 game at the Thunderbird Lanes in Troy to beat champ, George Pappas, in the showdown of the popular series.

Woolford's 220 total nipped Pappas' 215 and he wound up with a trophy and gifts for the victory. Dale, who learned to bowl with the Westland Youth Athletic Association group, has been bowling regularly since he was 13. The confrontation with Pappas will be viewed on the TV screens next month.

Eagles

Romulus's four-game winning streak 77-55. The Eagles stayed close for one period (10-8) but Flint's superior board strength paid off as the hosts leaped ahead 28-19 at halftime and held a 51-38 advantage for three periods.

Sixteen turnovers paved the way for Romulus's downfall.

Buckley's 16 points stood up as the game's high. Lewis sank 12 points and Bean picked up 13.

Bedford was voted the No. 1 Class A state team in a poll by the high school coaches across the state. However, area teams continue to hold down enviable berths among the state's 10.

Wayne Memorial is ranked No. 5, while Westland John Glenn is No. 8, and one notch down is Plymouth Salem.

Here is the rankings as compiled by Trenton Coach Jim Standings:

1. Temperance Bedford, 2. Land-sing Eastern 3. Monroe 4. Hazel Park

5. Wayne Memorial 6. Bay City Western 7. Flint Northwestern 8. Westland John Glenn 9. Plymouth Salem 10. Battle Creek Lakeview 11. Mt. Clemens 12. Detroit Catholic Central 13. Muskegon Mona Shores 14. Ypsilanti 15. Tie - Belleville and Adrian.

The Class B state poll gives New Boston Huron the coveted No. 1 post while Sturgis is No. 2 followed by Oscoda, Mt. Pleasant and Fenton.

resurgence was Al Shay who tossed in 10 of his game high 23 points in the second half.

In an out-of-league duel last Tuesday, Canton was edged 54-53 by Dearborn Heights Annapolis which took advantage of a cold-shooting Canton quintet in the first half.

Annapolis led 18-11 and 37-25 after the first two periods before King brought the Chiefs back. King's jumper with 32 seconds left tied the score, at 51-all, but Annapolis' Tony Marijanovich's layup and free throw settled the issue.

King scored more than half of the Chiefs' points as he tossed in 15 from the field and sank four of seven from the free throw line for a game and season high of 34 points. Kurt Herbert added 10 points.

Ineptness at the free throw line also was a factor in Canton's collapse as it made only seven of 17 chances to Annapolis's 12 of 14 performance.

Karate is his 'thing'

Since he was seven-years-old, Inkster's Larry Logan has been learning the skills and competing in the gruelling sport of karate.

Now, at 29, and the only man to win the Michigan title three consecutive years, Logan is teaching others. He is the instructor of the Inkster Karate Club and founder of the United States Martial Arts Association.

"Karate is not only a physical but mental state," stressed Logan who has trained under Master Instructor Herbert Johnson, a 4th degree Black Belt. "Karate helps to develop one's body as well as mind through conditioning."

Logan has kept busy by devoting time to the karate association and by training qualified Black Belt instructors, not just students. He still trains everyday to develop his own skills so that he can compete on the tournament level nationally.

Once ranked as one of the top 10 competitors in the Great Lakes region, Logan placed in tournaments consistently in the midwest for four seasons.

"I think I'm the only man to have won the Michigan title in karate for three straight years," Logan says. "As it stands now there are no promoters in Michigan, and in order to be recognized nationally, I'm going to have to find tournaments outside the state."

Logan's proteges have proven ability in tournament competition. Gottrell Woods, Gary Logan, Daniel Waller all have won championships in their respective classes.

Among some of his accomplishments, Logan has placed first in weapons, third in fighting in national competition.

Take that

One of the top karate experts in the nation, Inkster's Larry Logan (at right) shows the form that earned him a third place at the recent Ypsilanti Tournament. Logan has been competing in karate the past 8½ years and is the only man who has held the Michigan State championship title for three consecutive years. He is an instructor of the Inkster Karate Club.

Red Wing Oldtimers take over Over 30 icers

The Detroit Red Wings' Oldtimers will be in town on February 24 to test the Wayne-Westland Over 30 icers in a game scheduled at the Westland Arena.

Tickets for the 7:30 p.m. contest are $2.50 for adults and $1 for children under 14.

Tickets are available at Jack's Sporting Center, Four Seasons Sports Shop, the Wayne Arena or from any member of the Over 30 Hockey League.

The Red Wing Oldtimers play approximately 40 games during the season against a variety of clubs for charity and other fund-raising purposes.

Many of the familiar names in the Red Wings' organization will be on ice for the game.

Meanwhile, the Over 30 icers were back in action last week and league-leading Extra Point Bar edged 52nd Show Bar 3-2 for their 12th victory in 13 starts. Jack's won a 7-5 scoring duel over Tasee Freeze while Four Seasons outlasted Johnson's 7-4 and Brock's emerged atop of a 4-2 battle with Huron Valley.

AUTO FACTS

Tires have special warranties, and are normally warranted by the manufacturer for the life of the tread. Generally, if there is a premature failure due to a defect before 20 percent of the tread has been used, you will get a new tire at no charge. Beyond that percent of tread wear, the manufacturer will generally give a prorata allowance toward a new tire. For example, if half the tread remains, a new tire of the same type should be half price. Do-it-yourself mechanics have come to depend on the machine shop at KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan Ave., Inkster, for repair and maintenance work on all types of engines. Our skilled mechanics are experienced in all phases of machine work for just about any size and type of engine — diesel, motorcycle, industrial, marine, agricultural, automotive, etc. Bring your engine problems to KOSIN'S; we will do our best to solve them. We also feature a complete line of quality parts and accessories for both foreign and domestic cars. Our service is fast, efficient, and reasonably priced. Call us at 563-3894. We are open daily from 8 A.M. until 8 P.M., and on Saturdays until 5 P.M.

LEGAL NOTICES

To the Supervisor and Clerk of the Township of Canton, Wayne County, Michigan.

Sirs: You are hereby notified that the Board of County Road Commissioners of the County of Wayne, Michigan, did, at a meeting of said Board held on December 21, 1977, decide and determine that the certain streets described in the minutes of said Board should be County roads under the jurisdiction of the Board of County Road Commissioners. The minutes of said meeting fully describing said streets are hereby made a part of this notice, and are as follows: Minutes of the regular meeting of the Board of County Road Commissioners of the County of Wayne, Michigan, held at the Board's offices, 415 Clifford Street, Detroit, Michigan, at 12:30 P.M., Eastern Standard Time, Wednesday, December 21, 1977.

Present: Vice-Chairman Herron and Commissioner Burton.

Commissioner Burton moved the adoption of the following resolution: BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of County Road Commissioners of the County of Wayne, Michigan that it hereby accepts the dedication to the use of the public of the following described roads and they are hereby taken over as county roads and made a part of the county road system of the County of Wayne:

All of Candlewood, Crofton, Kingsley and Richmond Courts; Elmhurst Avenue; Kingsley, Richmond, Sheridan, Warfield and Webster Roads and Westchester Lane, as dedicated to the use of the public in MAYFAIR VILLAGE SUN'N NO. 2, part of the N.E. 1/4 of Section 3, T.25S., R.8E., Canton Twp., Wayne Co., Michigan, as recorded in Liber 97 of Plats on Pages 77, 78 and 79, Wayne County Records, constituting a total of 1.663 miles of County Roads.

The motion was supported by Commissioner Herron and carried by the following vote: Ayes: Commissioners Burton and Herron. Nays: None.

THIS NOTICE IS GIVEN UNDER AND BY VIRTUE OF ACT NO. 283 OF THE PUBLIC ACTS OF 1909, AS AMENDED.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand at Detroit, Michigan this 3rd day of January, A.D. 1978.

INFLATION RUNS WILD

Inflation is putting homes out of many buyers price range. The better the home, the more it's worth and the faster it goes up in price. Houses which sold for $28,000 last year are selling for $32,000 this year. Homes are selling so fast there aren't enough to go around. So don't sell your house for less than it's worth.

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS:

1. Save all your register tapes from our store. When they add up to $40.00 in purchases, just bring them in to our service booth and exchange them for your "Come n' Gift It" gift certificate.

2. Select one of the 32 items shown in the folder.

3. Fill out the gift certificate showing your choice of item and mail it according to the information shown. Your gift, fully guaranteed, will be mailed postpaid to your door.
